Report of the Working Group on Enforced or Involuntary Disappearances* **

Summary

The Working Group was the first United Nations human rights thematic mechanism to be established with a universal mandate. The original mandate derives from Commission on Human Rights resolution 20 (XXXVI) of 29 February 1980. This resolution followed General Assembly resolution 33/173 of 20 December 1978, in which the Assembly expressed concern at reports from various parts of the world relating to enforced disappearances and requested the Commission on Human Rights to consider the question of missing or disappeared persons. The mandate was most recently extended by the Human Rights Council in its resolution 16/16 of 24 March 2011.

The total number of cases transmitted by the Working Group to Governments since its inception is 53,778. The number of cases under active consideration that have not yet been clarified, closed or discontinued stands at 42,759 in a total of 82 States. The Working Group has been able to clarify 448 cases over the past five years.

The present report reflects communications and cases examined by the Working Group during its three sessions in 2011, covering the period 13 November 2010 to 11 November 2011. It includes, in annex I, sections on 95 States and territories; the Working Group's latest general comment on the right to recognition as a person before the law in the context of enforced disappearance; and the Working Group's revised methods of work.

I. Introduction

1. The Working Group was the first United Nations human rights thematic mechanism to be established with a universal mandate. The original mandate derives from Commission on Human Rights resolution 20 (XXXVI) of 29 February 1980. This resolution followed General Assembly resolution 33/173 of 20 December 1978, in which the Assembly expressed concern at reports from various parts of the world relating to enforced disappearances and requested the Commission on Human Rights to consider the question of missing or disappeared persons. The mandate was most recently extended by the Human Rights Council in its resolution 16/16 of 24 March 2011.

2. The primary task of the Working Group is to assist families in determining the fate or whereabouts of their family members who are reportedly disappeared. In this humanitarian capacity, the Working Group serves as a channel of communication between family members of victims of enforced disappearance and others connected to the disappeared person, and Governments.

3. Following the adoption of General Assembly resolution 47/133 on 18 December 1992 and of the Declaration on the Protection of All Persons from Enforced Disappearance, the Working Group was entrusted to monitor the progress of States in fulfilling their obligations derived from the Declaration. The Human Rights Council in its resolution 7/12 encouraged the Working Group to provide assistance in the implementation by States of the Declaration and of existing international rules.

4. Based on its experience of over 30 years, the Working Group has decided to amend the way in which its statistics are counted so that, in exceptional circumstances and for humanitarian reasons, cases may be included in the statistics of a different State from the one in which the enforced disappearance occurred. In addition, the Working Group has decided to deal with all enforced disappearances, regardless of the type of armed conflict that they occurred in. The revised methods of work, approved on 11 November 2011, are contained in annex II to the present report and will come into effect on 1 January 2012.

5. This report reflects communications and cases examined by the Working Group during its three sessions in 2011, covering the period from 13 November 2010 to 11 November 2011.

6. A summary of activities during the reporting period is presented in a table for each country, with a detailed text description of the areas of activity. Where there has been no information from the Government or the sources, notwithstanding the annual reminder sent by the Working Group concerning outstanding cases, only the table is provided and a reference is made to the previous report dealing with those cases. (Due to the fact that this year no waiver to the 10,700-word limit has been granted for the present report, the Working Group has decided to move all the sections on individual States to annex I.) However, this means that these sections, which contain relevant information on enforced disappearances around the world, will not be translated. While the Working Group calls upon the United Nations to reconsider the matter and, in the future, grant the waiver as it had been done in the past in view of the unique tool in the fight against enforced disappearances that this report constitutes for different stakeholders, it also encourages Governments and civil society actors to translate it into their national languages so as to provide wider access to the information contained therein.

7. The total number of cases transmitted by the Working Group to Governments since its inception is 53,778. The number of cases under active consideration that have not yet been clarified, closed or discontinued stands at 42,759 in a total of 82 States. The Working Group has been able to clarify 448 cases over the past five years.

8. The Working Group is concerned that many communications are not still translated in time, thus delaying their consideration by the Working Group and limiting its humanitarian mandate.

9. At the present time, the Working Group's website remains inadequate. The majority of the content is in English only. The Working Group once again calls on the United Nations to provide adequate resources to make it up to date and more accessible.

10. The Working Group is grateful for the additional human resources given to it during part of the reporting period. However it notes that the cumulative effect of a lack of adequate staff during the past three years has led to a backlog of more than 650 cases, for which reason it wishes to emphasize that the additional support needs to be sustained in the future.

II. Activities of the Working Group on Enforced or Involuntary Disappearances: 13 November 2010 to 11 November 2011

F. Statements and press releases

33. On 25 November 2010, the Working Group issued a statement welcoming the twentieth ratification of the International Convention for the Protection of All Persons from Enforced Disappearance, which ensured the entry into force of the international human rights treaty against this heinous crime.

34. On 23 December 2010, the Working Group issued a statement welcoming the entry into force of the Convention. The Working Group stressed that the entry into force of the Convention is a new and important step in the right direction, but that is not enough and urged States to make all possible efforts to prevent and eradicate the heinous practice of enforced disappearance and to bring to justice all those believed to be responsible for the crime; refrain from any act of intimidation or reprisals against those persons who contribute to the eradication of the practice; and take effective measures to realize the rights to truth, justice and reparation.

35. On 8 March 2011, on the occasion of the International Women's Day, the Working Group joined the Special Rapporteur on violence against women, its causes and consequences, and nine other United Nations human rights mechanisms in a press release urging States to comply with their international obligations to respect, protect and fulfil women's rights.

36. On 31 May 2011, the Working Group issued a statement on the occasion of the first meeting of State Parties to the International Convention for the Protection of All Persons from Enforced Disappearance and the election of members of the Committee on Enforced Disappearance. It emphasized that the Committee and the Working Group will coexist side by side and collaborate in their fight against enforced disappearances.

37. To commemorate the First United Nations International Day of the Disappeared, the Working Group issued a press release on 30 August 2011, reminding victims, including the families and associations of victims of those who disappeared, that they are not alone. In addition, the experts recalled that 2012 marks the 20th anniversary of the adoption by the General Assembly of the Declaration on the Protection of All Persons from Enforced Disappearance and encouraged all States and civil society to translate the Declaration into all languages and dialects, with no distinction, since all serve the purpose to assist in its global dissemination and the ultimate goal of preventing enforced disappearances.

38. During the reporting period, the Working Group also issued a series of press releases concerning China, Côte d'Ivoire, Libyan Arab Jamahiriya, Sudan, and the Syrian Arab Republic. Reference to these press releases can be found in the relevant country sections of this report (annex I).

39. During the reporting period, the Working Group welcomed the entry into force of the International Convention for the Protection of all Persons from Enforced Disappearance.

40. The Working Group congratulates the States that have ratified the Convention and encourages those that have not yet done so to accept the competence of the Committee to receive individual cases, under article 31, and inter-State complaints, under article 32 of the Convention.

41. The Working Group once again calls upon States that have not signed and/or ratified the Convention to do so as soon as possible and to accept the competence of the Committee under articles 31 and 32 of the Convention.

H. General comments

42. In 2011, the Working Group finalized a general comment on the right to recognition as a person before the law in the context of enforced disappearances, which was adopted at its ninety-fifth session.

General comment on the right to recognition as a person before the law in the context of enforced disappearances

Preamble

The right to recognition as a person before the law is a widely recognized human right at the universal and regional levels, including article 6 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and article 16 of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (see also, at the regional level, article XVII of the American Declaration on the Rights and Duties of Man, article 3 of the American Convention on Human Rights, and article 5 of the African Charter on Human and People's Rights).

This right is central to the conception of human rights, as it expresses the right and the capacity of each human being to be the holder of rights and obligations under the law. It has often been described as the “right to have rights” and as a direct consequence of the right to respect for human dignity.<sup>1</sup>

The Working Group has always considered that enforced disappearances infringe the right to be recognized as a person before the law (see the first report of the Working Group, E/CN.4/1435, § 184). Following this conclusion, the Declaration for the Protection of All Persons from Enforced Disappearance provides, in its article 1.2:

Any act of enforced disappearance places the persons subjected thereto outside the protection of the law [...] It constitutes a violation of the rules of international law guaranteeing, inter alia, the right to recognition as a person before the law [...]

There is indeed a strong link between one of the elements of the legal definition of enforced disappearance – the placement of the disappeared person outside the protection of the law – and the right to recognition as a person before the law.

<sup>1</sup> See in particular article 5 of the African Charter on Human and People's Rights, where those two rights are associated.

Following recent developments of case law at the universal and regional levels<sup>2</sup>, the Working Group deems it necessary to state its interpretation of article 1.2, in order to help States to apply the Declaration in a way that is most conducive to the protection of all persons from enforced disappearance.

Consequently, the Working Group has decided to issue the following general comment:

General Comment

1. Enforced disappearance represents a paradigmatic violation of the right to be recognized as a person before the law. One of the constitutive elements of enforced disappearances is that the person is placed “outside the protection of the law”. This means that not only the detention is denied, and/or the fate or the whereabouts of the person are concealed, but that while deprived of his/her liberty, this person is denied any right under the law, and is placed in a legal limbo, in a situation of total defencelessness.

2. Enforced disappearances entail the denial of the disappeared person’s legal existence and, as a consequence, prevent him or her from enjoying all other human rights and freedoms. The disappeared person may keep his or her name, at least when the birth has been registered (and except in cases when the true identity of children, who have been taken away from their parents, is falsified, concealed or destroyed), but he/she is not shown in the record of detainees; neither is the name kept in the registers of deaths. The disappeared is de facto deprived of his or her domicile. His/her properties become frozen in a legal limbo since no one, not even the next-of-kin, may dispose of that patrimony until the disappeared appears alive or is declared dead, that is a “non-person”.

3. The right to be recognized as a person before the law is also implicated in the case of children who were born during their mothers’ enforced disappearance, and who were thereafter illegally adopted. As far as their biological identity is not protected, their very own personality is not recognized before the law. Thus, article 20 of the Declaration provides that such acts of abduction, as well as the act of altering or suppressing documents attesting to their true identity, “shall constitute an extremely serious offence, which shall be punished as such”. The same article also provides that States “shall devote their efforts to the search for and identification of such children and to the restitution of the children to their families of origin”.

4. Even if the right to recognition as a person before the law is extinguished on the death of the disappeared person, its effects may last beyond his/her death, in particular with all matters related to inheritance. In addition, as the Working Group stated in its General Comment on Enforced Disappearance as a Continuous Crime, “[e]ven though the conduct violates several rights, including the right to recognition as a person before the law, (...) the Working Group considers that an enforced disappearance is a unique and consolidated act, and not a combination of acts” with the consequence that “even if some aspects of the violation may have been completed before the entry into force of the relevant national or international instrument, if other parts of the violation are still continuing, until such time as the victim’s fate or whereabouts are established, the matter should be heard, and the act should not be fragmented.” The violation of the right to recognition as a person before the law therefore lasts until the disappearance ends, that is to say when the fate or the whereabouts of the person have been determined.

<sup>2</sup> See in particular, Human Rights Committee, views Zohra Madoui v. Algeria, 28 October 2008, § 7.7, 7.8; Inter-American Court of Human Rights decision, Anzualdo Castro v. Peru, 22 September 2009, par. 90 and 101.

5. Enforced disappearances also entail violations of the rights of other persons, including the next-of-kin and others connected to the disappeared persons. Family members are prevented to exercise their rights and obligations due to the legal uncertainty created by the absence of the disappeared person. This uncertainty has many legal consequences, among others on the status of marriage, guardianship of under age children, right to social allowances of members of the families and management of property of the disappeared person.

6. The Working Group considers that the right to be recognized as a legal person entails the obligation of the State to fully recognize the legal personality of disappeared persons and thus respect the rights of their next-of-kin and as well as others.

7. For that reason, most domestic legal systems have institutions designed to deal with the impossibility of ascertaining a person’s death. Some States allow the issuance of a “presumption of death”, others of a “declaration of absence”. Some other States, which have been confronted in the past with a systematic or massive practice of enforced disappearance, have specifically created the notion of “certificate of absence by reason of forced disappearance” (see in particular the Working Group’s study on Compensation, presumption of death and exhumation, in E/CN.4/1998/43, p. 9 sq).

8. The basis for such an acknowledgement should take the form of a “declaration of absence by reason of enforced disappearance”, to be issued, with the consent of the family, by a State authority after a certain time has elapsed since the disappearance, in any case no less than one year.

9. Such a declaration should allow the appointment of a representative of the disappeared person, with the mandate to exercise his/her rights and obligations for the duration of his/her absence, in his/her interests and those of his/her next-of-kin. The latter should be allowed to manage temporarily the disappeared person’s properties, for as long as the enforced disappearance continues, and to receive due assistance from the State through social allowances. In most cases, the disappeared persons are men and were the family breadwinners and special social support should be provided to dependent women and children. The acceptance of financial support for members of the families should not be considered as a waiver of the right to integral reparation for the damage caused by the crime of enforced disappearance, in accordance with article 19 of the Declaration.

10. In parallel to the issuance of a system of declaration of absence as a result of enforced disappearance, States should continue to investigate all cases to determinate the fate and the whereabouts of the disappeared and to ensure accountability of those responsible for the commission of enforced disappearances. That is, such declaration should not interrupt or close the investigations to determine the fate or the whereabouts of the victim, but should allow his/her next-of-kin to exercise on their behalf certain rights.

11. The Working Group is committed to preserve and safeguard the right to recognition as a person in the implementation of its mandate. As the legal personality of the disappeared person is denied at the domestic level, the humanitarian mandate implemented by the Working Group should be understood as an international guarantee of this right.

III. Information concerning enforced or involuntary disappearances in various States and territories reviewed by the Working Group on Enforced or Involuntary Disappearances

43. The information concerning enforced or involuntary disappearances in various States and territories reviewed by the Working Group is contained in annex I of the present report and is divided in 95 sections, one per country. Each of these sections summarizes the activities carried out by the Working Group during the reporting period with respect to each of those countries. The information is presented in a table per country, with a detailed text description of the areas of activity. Where there has been no information from the Government or the sources, notwithstanding the annual reminder sent by the Working Group concerning outstanding cases, only the table is provided and a reference is made to the previous report dealing with those cases.

44. In this respect, the sections contained in annex I relate to: Afghanistan; Albania; Algeria; Angola; Argentina; Azerbaijan; Bahrain; Bangladesh; Belarus; Bhutan; Bolivia (Plurinational State of); Bosnia and Herzegovina; Brazil; Burundi; Cameroon; Chad; Chile; China; Colombia; Congo; Côte d'Ivoire; Czech Republic; Democratic People's Republic of Korea; Democratic Republic of the Congo; Denmark; Dominican Republic; Ecuador; Egypt; El Salvador; Equatorial Guinea; Eritrea; Ethiopia; France; Gambia; Georgia; Greece; Guatemala; Guinea; Haiti; Honduras; India; Indonesia; Iran (Islamic Republic of); Iraq; Ireland; Israel; Italy; Japan; Jordan; Kenya; Kuwait; Lao People's Democratic Republic; Lebanon; Libya; Mauritania; Mexico; Morocco; Mozambique; Myanmar; Namibia; Nepal; Nicaragua; Pakistan; Peru; Philippines; Russian Federation; Rwanda; Saudi Arabia; Serbia; Seychelles; Somalia; South Sudan; Spain; Sri Lanka; Sudan; Syrian Arab Republic; Tajikistan; Thailand; The former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia; Timor-Leste; Togo; Tunisia; Turkey; Turkmenistan; Uganda; Ukraine; United Arab Emirates; United States of America; Uruguay; Uzbekistan; Venezuela (Bolivarian Republic of); Viet Nam; Yemen; Zimbabwe; and the Palestinian Authority.

IV. Conclusions and recommendations

45. In 2011, the Working Group transmitted 261 newly-reported cases of disappearance to 25 Governments. The Working Group used the urgent action procedure in 73 of these cases, which allegedly occurred within the three months preceding the receipt of the report by the Working Group. During the reporting period, the Working Group was able to clarify 63 cases of enforced disappearance.

46. Over 40,000 cases still remain unclarified by the Working Group, many going back decades. In spite of this large number, underreporting remains a major problem. It occurs for various reasons, including poverty, illiteracy, fear of reprisals, weak administration of justice, ineffectual reporting channels, institutionalized systems of impunity, language barriers, a practice of silence and restrictions on the work of civil society. More assistance should be provided to family members and members of civil society in order for them to be in a position to report cases to the Working Group.

47. The Working Group is grateful for the cooperation received from a number of States: it is indispensable for discovering the fate or whereabouts of disappeared persons around the globe. Nevertheless, it remains concerned that of the 82 States with outstanding cases, some States have never replied to the Working Group's communications and some States provide responses that do not contain relevant information. The Working Group urges those States to fulfil their obligations under the Declaration and the resolutions of the General Assembly and the Human Rights Council.

48. The Working Group acknowledges the efforts of States, of victims' associations, of many human rights defenders, non-governmental organizations, lawyers and others who untiringly work to know the fate or whereabouts of disappeared persons in very adverse circumstances in all parts of the world and reiterates its solidarity with the victims of enforced disappearance and their families.

49. Unfortunately, the Working Group continues to note a pattern of threats, intimidation and reprisals against victims of enforced disappearances, including family members, witnesses and human rights defenders working on such cases. Again, the Working Group calls upon States to take specific measures to prevent such acts and to punish the perpetrators and protect those working on enforced disappearances.

50. The Working Group notes that, regrettably, enforced disappearances continue to be used by some States as a tool to deal with situations of conflict or internal unrest. The Working Group has also witnessed the use of "short term disappearances", where victims are placed in secret detention or unknown locations, outside the protection of the law, before being released weeks or months later, sometimes after having been tortured and without having been brought in front of a judge or other civil authority. This very worrisome practice, whether it is used to counter terrorism, to fight organized crime or suppress legitimate civil strife demanding democracy, freedom of expression or religion, should be considered as an enforced disappearance and as such adequately investigated, prosecuted and punished.

51. In a general comment adopted this year, the Working Group concluded that enforced disappearance represents a paradigmatic violation of the right to be recognized as a person before the law. It stated that enforced disappearances entail the denial of the disappeared person's legal existence and, as a consequence, prevent him or her from enjoying all other human rights and freedoms. It further concluded that States should acknowledge and respect the right of every disappeared person to be recognized as a person before the law, and that the basis of this acknowledgement should take the form of a "declaration of absence by reason of enforced disappearance". The Working Group is committed to preserve and safeguard the right to recognition as a person in the implementation of its mandate. As the legal personality of the disappeared person is denied at the domestic level, the humanitarian mandate implemented by the Working Group should be understood as an international guarantee of this right.

52. The Working Group calls upon States to take specific legislative, administrative, judicial or other measures, including the establishment of specific investigating bodies, to prevent and eradicate enforced disappearances.

53. The Working Group reminds States that enforced disappearance is a continuous crime as long as the fate or whereabouts of the victim remains unclarified. States should take specific measures under their criminal law to define enforced disappearances as an autonomous criminal offence and to bring their existing legislation in line with the Declaration. In this regard, the Working Group encourages States to consult its study on best practices on enforced disappearances in domestic criminal legislation (A/HRC/16/48/Add.3).

54. States are encouraged to take all possible measures to prevent enforced disappearances. These include: accessible and updated registries of detainees at all places of detention and confinement; guaranteed access to appropriate information and to all such places for relatives as well as lawyers; bringing arrested persons promptly before a judicial authority; and strengthening civil society organizations that deal with the issue of enforced disappearance.

55. The Working Group reminds States of their obligations under the Declaration to ensure that cases of enforced disappearance are promptly investigated and persons accused of having committed these violations are arrested and prosecuted. Trials should only be carried out in competent civilian courts and punishments should be commensurate with the gravity of the crime. The Working Group also reminds States that they have an obligation to ensure that every person having knowledge of, or a legitimate interest in, an enforced disappearance has the right to complain to a competent and independent authority to have their complaint promptly, thoroughly and impartially investigated.

56. Since its first report in 1981, the Working Group has acknowledged the right to the truth as an autonomous right. The right to the truth is both an individual and a collective right: each victim has the right to know the truth about violations that have affected him or her, but the truth also has to be told at the level of society to prevent the recurrence of such violations.

57. The Working Group reminds States of article 18 of the Declaration, as well as of its general comment thereon, according to which persons who have or who are alleged to have committed acts of enforced disappearance shall not benefit from any special amnesty law or similar measures that might have the effect of exempting them from any criminal proceedings or sanction.

58. The Working Group encourages States to apply the most comprehensive definition of “victim”, with no distinction between direct and indirect victims.

59. The Working Group emphasizes that the right to the truth includes, when the disappeared person is found to be dead, the right of the families to have the remains of their loved ones returned to them. The remains of the persons should be clearly and indisputably identified, including through DNA analysis. States should take the appropriate steps to use forensic expertise and scientific methods of identification to the maximum of their available resources, including through international assistance and cooperation.

60. The Working Group recalls its general comment on article 19 of the Declaration on the right of all victims of acts of enforced disappearance, including their families, to obtain redress and integral reparation, including to as complete a rehabilitation as possible. States should adopt legislative and other measures to enable victims, and in case of death of the victim their dependents, to claim reparations.

61. The Working Group notes the importance of reconciliation, as a logical continuation of the implementation of an integral process of the rights to truth, justice and reparation. The process of reconciliation must be based on the principle of consultation with civil society, particularly with victims associations and cannot be achieved at the expense of the right of victims of enforced disappearances to justice and reparation.

62. Women are particularly affected by enforced disappearances as the consequences at economic, social and psychological levels, are most often borne by them. If they are the victims of disappearance, they are particularly vulnerable to sexual and other forms of violence. In addition, as they are at the forefront of the struggle to resolve the disappearances of members of their families, they are subject to intimidation, persecution and reprisals.

63. The Working Group notes that children are also victims of disappearances. The disappearance of a child, his/her wrongful removal, and the loss of a parent through disappearance are serious violations of children's rights.

64. Country visits are an integral part of the fulfilment of the Working Group's mandate. They allow the Working Group to highlight country practices in addressing enforced disappearances, to assist States in reducing obstacles to implement the Declaration, and to ensure direct contact with the family members of the victims. There are, however, a number of States from which the Working Group has requested invitations to visit and which have not been forthcoming. There are others which have informally invited and/or confirmed invitations, but for which specific dates to visit have not been agreed. The Working Group therefore calls upon all States with pending requests for visits and those that have agreed to visits to respond as soon as possible with specific dates.

65. The Working Group once again calls upon Governments that have not signed and/or ratified the International Convention on the Protection of All Persons from Enforced Disappearance to do so as soon as possible and to accept the competence of the Committee to receive individual cases, under article 31, and inter-State complaints under article 32 of the Convention.

66. The Working Group welcomes that the United Nations declared 30 August International Day of the Victims of Enforced Disappearances. It further notes that 2012 marks the 20th anniversary of the adoption by the General Assembly of the Declaration on the Protection of All Persons from Enforced Disappearance, and encourages all States to translate it with no distinction between languages and dialects since all serve the purpose of assisting in its global dissemination and the ultimate goal of prevention of enforced disappearances.

67. The Working Group is grateful to the Government of Argentina and France for their financial and human resource contributions, which allowed the Working Group to have enhanced support. The Working Group reminds the United Nations of the limited regular budget made available to it and calls for greater assistance to allow it to accomplish its mandate.

Benbekhma; Ferhat Bouamili; Kamel Bouaou; Achour Bouatrous; Kamel Bouatrous; Rabah Bouatrous; Abdelaziz Bouacheikaif; and Smail Boucheikaif. The majority of these persons allegedly disappeared between 1994 and 1995, in Jijel. Most disappearances are attributed to the military and the National Gendarmerie.

Information from the Government

4. The Government transmitted three communications dated 1 December 2010, and 29 March and 4 November 2011. The first includes a reply to a prompt intervention letter sent on 24 August 2010. In the second communication, the Government provided information on 11 outstanding cases. The information provided was considered insufficient to lead to their clarification. The third one was handed to the Working Group during its ninety-fifth session and was connected to outstanding cases. The information could not be processed in time for inclusion in the present report.

Information from sources

5. Information was received from sources concerning 12 outstanding cases.

Prompt intervention

6. On 1 December 2010, the Government replied to a prompt intervention letter sent jointly with three other Special Procedures mechanisms on 24 August 2010, concerning reports of a prohibition imposed on mothers of disappeared persons to assemble peacefully on 4, 11 and 18 August 2010, and the alleged repression suffered by the mothers and others demonstrating on 11 August 2010. In its communication, the Government indicated that during the gathering of 11 August 2010, four aggressive individuals were arrested by the police for usual checks without using violence. The Government stressed that Security Services have not, at any moment, repressed the gatherings of the mothers of the disappeared and that the intervention of the police officers was limited to the application of legal means in their capacity as public forces vested with the mission to restore order in the framework of the legislation in force. The Government indicated that it has discharged its obligations with a certain firmness, but with much skill and tact in particular regarding women and elderly people.

7. The Government highlighted that the control of the demonstration was not handled by the Republican Security Unit, equipped for this kind of interventions, but by the public security services, including many female officers, thus ensuring a soft approach towards the demonstrators. The Government added that no complaint was submitted by the demonstrators and that nobody required medical assistance. In addition, the Government stressed that the people submitting the allegations, of the pseudo association “SOS Disparus”, entity with no legal status, aim at harming the reputation of the security services and try to foster their “cause”, in decline after the enactment of the Charter for Peace and National Reconciliation.

8. Finally, the Government highlighted that the legal basis to prohibit the gatherings of the families of the disappeared in front of the offices of the National Human Rights Commission is based on the law 91-19, of 2 December 1991, relating to public meetings and demonstrations, in particular its article 19, that stipulates that “Every demonstration carried out without prior declaration ... is considered an illegal gathering (attroupement).”

Request for a visit

9. On 25 August 2000, the Working Group requested an invitation to undertake a mission to Algeria. A reminder was sent on 21 October 2010. On 12 November 2010, the Government informed the Working Group that it would not be in a position to forward all supporting documents which had been requested concerning outstanding cases; however, the Government proposed that the Working Group travel to Algiers to consult the above-mentioned documents and meet with the families of those allegedly disappeared but found alive. On 23 May 2011, the Working Group replied to this communication indicating to the Government that it would prefer to carry out a visit to the country in conformity with its usual practice.

Observations

12. The Working Group thanks the Government of Algeria for its cooperation. It reminds the Government of its obligations under the Declaration towards the families of the disappeared and in particular of article 13.3 of the Declaration, according to which States must take steps to ensure that persons involved in investigations of cases of enforced disappearance, including the complainant, counsel, witnesses and those conducting the investigation, are protected against ill-treatment, intimidation or reprisal.

Information from the Government

24. On 2 September 2011, the Government transmitted a communication dated 25 August 2009, which was not recorded in the 2009 annual report (A/HRC/13/31), replying to a general allegation transmitted on 15 May 2009, concerning the alleged involvement of the Government of Azerbaijan in a practice of renditions and secret detention (A/HRC/13/31, paragraphs 70 and 71).

General allegations

Reply from the Government

25. On 2 September 2011, the Working Group received a response from the Government to the general allegation stating that it was not involved in the practice of renditions and secret detention allegedly operated by the United States on its territory. The Government stated that the general allegation contained no proof of such cases and that should such cases be reported to it, it would investigate them.

26. The Government recalled that it is a democratic republic guided by international human rights law and that the individual right to freedom is enshrined in its Constitution.

27. The Government also indicated that the principle of the presumption of innocence, the guarantee to an effective judicial remedy and the right to a fair trial at all stages of the criminal proceedings were guaranteed by a series of legal provisions.

28. In addition, the Government reported that the inspection on the control over the execution of punishments was set up to ensure an independent investigation of appeals. The Government also reported that a Public Committee consisting of representatives of authoritative non-governmental human rights organisations was set up under the Ministry of Justice to monitor the situation of detainees.

29. Furthermore, the Government stated that the Commissioner for Human Rights considers complaints formulated by citizens, stateless persons and foreigners in connection to human rights violations.

Observations

30. The Working Group recalls article 13.1, which states that whenever “there are reasonable grounds to believe that an enforced disappearance has been committed, the State shall promptly refer the matter to that authority for such an investigation, even if there has been no formal complaint. No measure shall be taken to curtail or impede the investigation.”

The first communication, transmitted on 22 March 2011, jointly with three other special procedures mechanisms, concerned Messrs. Abduljalil Al Singace and Hassan Mushaima, who were allegedly arrested by Bahraini security forces on 17 March 2011. The arrest allegedly took place during a security operation with the alleged objective of removing protesters from Pearl Roundabout.

34. On 26 April 2011, the Government replied to this urgent appeal. It noted that the whereabouts of the arrested persons are not unknown, as alleged, nor that they were subjected to arbitrary detention. The State noted that they were arrested by competent authorities for having committed prosecutable offences and they enjoyed all guarantees accorded to accused persons.

35. The second communication, transmitted on 12 April 2011, jointly with two other special procedures mechanisms, concerned Messrs. Abdulahdi Alkhawaja, Wafi Almajid and Hussein Ahmed, who were allegedly arrested by a group of masked police officers on 9 April 2011.

36. On 7 June 2011, the Government replied to this urgent appeal. In this communication, the Government stated that Abdulhadi Alkhawaja was arrested and questioned about a series of charges brought against him including, inter alia, knowingly becoming a member of a terrorist group; attempting with the help of others to overthrow the monarchy and change the State Constitution; promoting political change in Bahrain through the use of force; and taking part in and inviting others to join unauthorized rallies. The Government also indicated that Mr. Alkhawaja was referred to the National Safety Court of First Instance, where his arraignment took place. This instance complied with international human rights standards and provided the guarantees afforded by law to the accused, including the right to contact his family and his lawyer, and the right to inform his family of his whereabouts and of the measures taken in his regard. Finally, the Government indicated that Messrs. Wafi Almajid and Hussein Ahmed were arrested but not accused of the same offences as Mr. Abdulhadi Alkhawaja.

37. The third communication, transmitted on 21 April 2011, jointly with two other special procedures mechanisms, concerned Mr. Mohammed Al-Tajir, a prominent human rights lawyer, who was allegedly arrested by a group of masked and plain-clothed security officers on 15 April 2011, and then taken to an undisclosed location.

In this communication, the Government stated that Mr. Muhammad Al-Tajir was arrested further to orders issued by the competent authority and that his arrest and detention were conducted in line with the laws in force in Bahrain, all legal safeguards were guaranteed and Mr. Al-Tajir was permitted to contact his family.

43. In the fifth communication, dated 8 June 2011, the Government provided information on two outstanding cases which was considered insufficient to lead to their clarification. However, the cases were later clarified by the sources.

Information from sources

44. Information was received from sources concerning two outstanding cases. As a result, these two cases were clarified.

Clarification

45. Following the information provided by sources, the Working Group decided to clarify two cases.

Total cases transmitted, clarified and outstanding

46. Since its establishment, the Working Group has transmitted five cases to the Government; of those, four cases have been clarified on the basis of information provided by the source and one case remains outstanding.

Observations

47. While the Working Group thanks the Government for its cooperation by replying to all the communications it received, it is concerned at the number of urgent appeals and urgent actions transmitted during the reporting period and that “accurate information on the detention of” a number of “persons and their place or places of detention” was allegedly not “made promptly available to their family members, their counsel or to any other persons having a legitimate interest in the information”, as required by article 10.2 of the Declaration.

48. The Working Group would also like to recall article 7 of the Declaration, which states that “No circumstances whatsoever, whether a threat of war, a state of war, internal political instability or any other public emergency, may be invoked to justify enforced disappearances”.

Urgent actions

In accordance with the Working Group’s usual practice, the Government of India received a copy of the case. The Government of Bangladesh acknowledged receipt of this case.

51. The second case concerned Mr. Mohammad Rafiqul Islam, who was allegedly abducted in Dhaka on 15 February 2011, by agents of the “Rapid Action Battalion”. The Government acknowledged receipt of this case.

Summary of the general allegation

52. Information was submitted by sources concerning obstacles encountered in the implementation of the Declaration on the Protection of All Persons from Enforced Disappearance in Bangladesh. This information was transmitted to the Government on 4 May 2011, after the Working Group's ninety-third session.

53. Sources informed the Working Group that enforced disappearance is frequently being used as a tool by the country's law-enforcement agencies, paramilitary and armed forces to detain and even extra-judicially execute individuals. According to sources, enforced disappeared persons were abducted by plain-clothed armed men, who introduced themselves as officers of the Rapid Action Battalion (RAB). They were handcuffed and blindfolded and taken into the RAB's custody and detained for several months in unknown locations without any contact. During detention, they were reportedly regularly tortured. The Working Group was also informed that the victims were detained for four to eight months without any record being kept by any of the country's institutions.

54. It was also reported, that after prolonged detention, the disappeared were driven a few hundred miles away from their place of detention and dropped off blindfolded at night in isolated rural areas. The persons were then arrested by the local police, who informed the relatives to fetch them. The sources further indicated that, during their disappearance, the victims were subjected to serious intimidation by the Rapid Action Battalion's officers, including being subjected to death threats.

55. The Working Group was also informed that relatives of the disappeared are prevented from exercising their right to register a complaint regarding the alleged abductions. Cases will not be registered after it is reported to the authorities that the abductors introduce themselves as officers of the RAB. There has not been a single recorded instance in which the perpetrators of the abductions and disappearances have shown specific documents or warrants issued by courts or referring to particular criminal cases against the abducted person.

56. The Government acknowledged receipt of the general allegation. However, no response regarding its content has been received during the reporting period.

Total cases transmitted, clarified and outstanding

57. Since its establishment, the Working Group has transmitted seven cases to the Government; of those, one case has been clarified on the basis of information provided by the Government, and six remain outstanding.

Observations

58. The Working Group is concerned that it sent two urgent actions and received allegations that enforced disappearances are being used by law enforcement officers, paramilitary agents and armed forces. The Working Group regrets that no information has been received from the Government in connection with the general allegation and calls on the Government to cooperate in accordance with relevant Human Rights Council resolutions.

Information from the Government

66. In a communication dated 2 September 2011, the Government transmitted information concerning the actions undertaken with regard to the recommendations made by the Working Group after its visit to the country in June 2010.

Summary of the general allegation

67. Information was submitted by sources concerning obstacles encountered in the implementation of the Declaration on the Protection of all Persons from Enforced Disappearance in Bosnia and Herzegovina. This information was transmitted to the Government on 4 May 2011, after the Working Group's ninety-third session.

68. It was reported that among the gravest violations of human rights and serious breaches of international humanitarian law that occurred during the armed conflict in Bosnia and Herzegovina, the massacre of "Korićanskestijene" took place on 21 August 1992, during which between 150 and 200 men were extra-judicially executed.

69. According to the sources, over the years, exhumations have been carried out at Korićanskestijene in order to locate, identify and return the mortal remains of the victims to their families. It is reported that the authorities have failed to clarify the fate and whereabouts of all the victims and, in the most likely event of their death, to exhume, locate, identify and return the remains to the families, as well as to judge and sanction those responsible for these crimes.

* In accordance with the practice of the Working Group, Jasminka Dzumhur did not participate in the decisions relating to this section of the report.

70. On 31 March 2009, the trial against Mr. Zoran Babić, Mr. Milorad Radaković, Mr. Milorad Škrbić, Mr. Dušan Janković and Mr. Željko Stojnić (known as Case Babić et al., No.X-KR-08/549) commenced before the Trial Chamber of the War Crimes Section of the Bosnia and Herzegovina Court. The accused were indicted in relation to the Korićanskestijene massacre and formally charged with crimes against humanity pursuant to article 172 of the Criminal Code of Bosnia and Herzegovina.

71. Allegedly, on 29 May 2008, Mr. Dušan Janković was arrested in Prijedor and placed in pre-trial detention. However, on 11 November 2009, he obtained the conditional release pending trial, notwithstanding that representatives of relatives of the victims of the Korićanskestijene massacre had repeatedly pointed out that there was a risk of flight. Mr. Dušan Janković was sentenced in his capacity as Commander of the Police Station in Prijedor and found guilty of crimes against humanity. However, he failed to appear in court when the verdict was delivered. Since then, he is nowhere to be found and has been officially declared at large.

72. It is argued that the escape of Mr. Dušan Janković could easily have been avoided had the necessary precautionary measures been put in place by the competent authorities. Further, it is alleged that this situation is not an isolated incident, but rather seems to be part of a common practice. There is concern that the authorities fail to ensure that persons indicted or convicted for, crimes against humanity or war crimes do not flee from custody.

73. No response was received from the Government during the reporting period regarding this general allegation.

Observations

74. The Working Group thanks the Government for its report on the implementation of the recommendations made after its visit to the country in 2010, and hopes to continue with the cooperation to address all the recommendations. The Working Group looks forward to work on a follow-up report.

75. The Working Group regrets that no response was received from the Government to its general allegation sent on 15 May 2009, concerning the Government's alleged involvement in a practice of renditions and secret detention (A/HRC/13/31, par. 103-5), notwithstanding a reminder sent on 26 August 2011. The Working Group also regrets that no response has been received to the general allegation transmitted on 4 May 2011.

Urgent actions

89. The Working Group transmitted two cases under its urgent action procedure to the Government. The first case concerned Ms. Mao Hengfeng, a well know human rights defender who was allegedly abducted by Shanghai and Anhui police officers on 24 February 2011 from her home in Yangpu District, Shanghai. The second case concerned Mr. Ershidin Israel who, on 30 May 2011, allegedly disappeared after being extradited from Kazakhstan to China. Mr. Israel was the subject of an urgent appeal previously transmitted to the Government.

Urgent Appeals

90. The Working Group transmitted seven communications under its urgent appeal procedure.

91. The first communication was transmitted on 2 March 2011, jointly with five other special procedures mechanisms, and concerned an alleged pattern of arrests, detentions, enforced disappearances and intimidations of human rights defenders and lawyers across the country following calls for protests inspired by the so-called “Jasmine Revolution”. In this communication it was acknowledged that Messrs. Gu Chuan, Teng Biao, Tang Jitian and Jiang Tianyong, some of the subjects of the urgent appeal sent on 2 March 2011, were released.

97. The sixth communication was transmitted on 30 August 2011, jointly with three other special procedures mechanisms, and concerned the Buddhist monk Mr. Jigme Guri (also known as Akhu Jigme and Lama Jigme), who was allegedly arrested by police and security forces on 20 August 2011, in the hotel “Z-hong Yan” in Hezhou, Kanlho prefecture.

98. The seventh communication was transmitted on 6 October 2011, jointly with three other special procedures mechanisms, and concerned the alleged continued harassment and repression of the monastic community in and around the Ngaba Kirti Monastery and the self-immolation of two young monks, Mr. Lobsang Kalsang Harutsang and Mr. Lobsang Kunchok, on 26 September 2011. Reportedly, Chinese security forces and the police extinguished the fire and the two monks were taken away to an unknown location. It has also been alleged that one monk has died following the self-immolation.

Summary of the general allegation

99. Information was submitted from sources concerning reported obstacles encountered in the implementation of the Declaration on the Protection of All Persons from Enforced Disappearance in the People’s Republic of China. This information was transmitted to the Government on 21 September 2011, after the Working Group’s ninety-fourth session.

100. Sources reported that proposed revisions to the Criminal Procedure Law will legalise enforced disappearances in the country. It was reported that the draft law, if enacted, would allow State organs, when they suspect someone of involvement in terrorism, state security, or major corruption, to detain this person in an ad hoc location of their choice for up to six months and keep this detention secret should they argue that notifying relatives might “impede” the investigations.

101. It was further reported that the authority nominally in charge of controlling the application of this measure is inadequate, as the controlling authority—“the immediately superior level of the People’s Procuratorate or the public security organ”—is the same as the one that imposes the measure, only one hierarchical level up. Further, it was reported that in cases of corruption – they are investigated by the Procuratorate, not by the Public Security Bureau and thus the Procuratorate would therefore be in the position of supervising itself. It was further alleged that the Communist Party’s Political and Legal Committees are in charge of “coordinating” (xietiao) the activities of the Public Security Bureau, the Procuratorate, and the Courts and that these Committees are generally headed by the head of the Public Security Bureau and handle all politically sensitive cases. It was reported therefore that in practice a decision to put someone in secret detention would have been taken by the Political and Legal Committee, with the Public Security Bureau as the implementer and the Procuratorate and the Courts assisting their work, not controlling it.

102. It was further reported that there are no meaningful relief procedures for the duration of the secret detention as a suspect detained in a place unknown to him/her and without the possibility of communicating with anyone else besides the person’s captors. Thus the person would be unable to contest his/her detention.

103. It was also alleged that the risk of torture and ill-treatment would be considerably heightened if the law was enacted as permitting such detentions for up to six months in secret locations outside of any regulatory system is likely to lead to widespread abuses. It was also reported that there is a high risk of law enforcement agencies abusing the measure, if it comes into force, given the current practice of detaining critics and dissidents, including a number of lawyers, in secret locations. It is feared that law enforcement agencies might be tempted to use this measure in ordinary criminal cases to circumvent the more onerous procedural requirements mandated by the ordinary law.

104. No response was received from the Government regarding this general allegation during the reporting period.

Information from the Government

105. The Government transmitted a communication on 4 September 2009, which could not be translated in time for inclusion in the 2009 and 2010 annual reports (A/HRC/13/31 and A/HRC/16/48). It concerned two outstanding cases and the information provided was not considered sufficient to lead to their clarification. Its content is as follows: “Receipt is hereby acknowledged of communication No. G/SO 271 CHINA from the Chair of the United Nations Human Rights Council’s Working Group on Enforced Disappearances. The Chinese Government has carefully looked into the matter referred to in the communication and wishes to make the following reply: 1. Concerning Gao Zhisheng. Gao Zhisheng is an ethnic Han male born on 20 April 1964; he is originally from Shaanxi. On 15 August 2006, Gao Zhisheng was placed in criminal detention by the public security authorities on suspicion of the crime of subverting State power, and on 21 September of that year he was arrested by order of the procuratorial authorities. On 22 December 2006, the Beijing First Intermediate People’s Court sentenced Gao, taking into account his meritorious service, to three years’ imprisonment and five years’ probation, and to one year’s deprivation of his political rights. Gao served his sentence and is now on probation in Beijing; when necessary, he occasionally stays at another location. For example, at the end of June 2009 he went to his family home in Shaanxi to pay his respects to deceased family members. 2. Concerning Choekyi Nyima. Since the reign of the Qianlong emperor during the Qing Dynasty in the eighteenth century, the entire process relating to the search for and determination of the Dalai Lama and the child reincarnation of the Panchen Lama as well as the sitting-in-bed ceremony of the latter has required the transmission of a detailed report by the local Tibetan government to the central Government, with authority for the final determination regarding the child reincarnation concentrated in the central Government. The drawing of lots from a golden urn has likewise become a historically established practice since that time. The Dalai Lama's disregard for a historically established practice, his flouting of a religious ritual and his arrogating to himself the recognition of the so-called reincarnated Panchen Lama are illegal and devoid of any effect. They also show extreme disrespect for the Dalai Lama's historic lineage. Choekyi Nyima, who, according to the foreign media is just an average Chinese boy belonging to the Tibetan ethnic minority, is in excellent health. China is a country governed by the rule of law, and citizens' legitimate rights are protected by national legislation; Choekyi Nyima has not been placed under "house arrest". He and his family are currently leading normal lives in Tibet, and he is receiving an excellent education. They have on numerous occasions said that they do not wish to have their normal lives disrupted in any way, and we should fully respect their wishes. The Chinese Government respectfully requests that the foregoing be reproduced in its entirety in a relevant document of the United Nations."

106. In 2010, the Government transmitted four communications which could not be translated in time for inclusion in the 2010 annual report (A/HRC/16/48).

107. The first communication, dated 12 February 2010, could not be translated in time for inclusion in the present report either.

108. In the second communication, dated 25 February 2010, the Government provided information concerning two outstanding cases and the information provided was not considered sufficient to lead to their clarification. Its content is as follows: "Zhou Yongjun, also known as Zhou Yazhou, is an ethnic Han male born on 15 September 1967; he was arrested on 8 May 2009. Accusing the defendant Zhou Yongjun with the crime of fraud, the People's Procuratorate of Shehong County, Sichuan Province, brought charges before the Shehong County People's Court; the Court held an open trial, in which it was found that: In May 2008, the defendant Zhou Yongjun, having learned that account No. 239-082258-888 deposited with the Hang Seng Bank in Hong Kong and belonging to one Wang Xingxiang contained a large sum of money, addressed letters in the name of "Wang Xingxiang" on three separate occasions to said bank requesting that the sum of 6 million Hong Kong dollars should be transferred from the account of Wang Xingxiang to the Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corporation (HSBC) in Hong Kong and Citibank in Australia; in the three letters he altered the beneficiary's address and telephone number. After an employee of the Hang Seng Bank in Hong Kong received the letters, an investigation revealed that the signature of "Wang Xingxiang" on the letters differed from the signature on file with the bank and that the holder of the account in question was deceased; the account had been frozen by the courts, thereby blocking any requested transfers and thwarting Zhou's fraudulent activity. The Shehong County People's Court in Sichuan Province found that Zhou, with unlawful possession as his objective, used fabrication and dissemblance to fraudulently obtain other people's property, that his actions constituted the crime of fraud, that the number of fraudulent activities was particularly high and thus merited punishment. As Zhou's attempted fraud was not successful, his punishment was reduced, in accordance with the law. The Shehong People's Court sentenced him to nine years' imprisonment and fined him 80,000 yuan renminbi. Zhou contested the verdict and lodged an appeal; his appeal is currently being heard in the Suining Intermediate People's Court in Sichuan Province. China is a country governed by the rule of law, and the judicial authorities complied strictly with the relevant legislation and legal procedures in their handling of this case. The hearings were open and procedures were transparent, and Zhou's two appointed defence lawyers were able to present a full defence. There has been no instance of any "enforced disappearance" in this case. Gao Zhisheng is an ethnic Han male born on 20 April 1964; in December 2006 he was sentenced to three years' imprisonment with a five-year reprieve and one year's deprivation of his political rights. Following his period of probation, the public security authorities, acting in accordance with articles 75 and 76 of the Criminal Law of the People's Republic of China and the Regulations of the Public Security Authorities regarding the Supervision of Criminals under Surveillance, Deprived of their Political Rights, Sentenced with Reprieve, on Parole or Temporarily Released to Obtain Medical Treatment, placed Gao under surveillance. In 2009, following his release, Gao Zhisheng is working in Urumqi, Xinjiang, where he remains in contact with his wife, Geng He, who is in the United States, and with other family members in China. The public security authorities have not taken any coercive measures with regard to Gao, and there has been no instance of any "enforced disappearance" in the handling of his case."

109. In the third communication, dated 22 April 2010, the Government provided information concerning one outstanding case. The information provided was not considered sufficient to lead to its clarification. Its content is as follows: "Receipt is hereby acknowledged of communication No. G/SO 217/1 and G/SO 214 (56-23) CHN 5/2010 dated 8 March from the Chair-Rapporteur of the Working Group on Enforced or Involuntary Disappearances and the Special Rapporteur on freedom of religion or belief of the United Nations Human Rights Council, containing an urgent appeal. The Chinese Government has looked carefully into the matter referred to in the communication and wishes to make the following reply: First, Jiang Feng is an ethnic Han male, born on 14 March 1968, whose current address is Anhui Province, Hefei, Luyangqu, Tongchenglu No. 136. In December 1999 he was sentenced to three years' imprisonment for organizing and making use of a cult to undermine the law. In December 2002, he was released upon completion of his sentence. Having served his sentence, Jiang showed no repentance and continued to use the Falun Gong cult to carry out illegal activities. On 18 February 2010, as he was preparing to board flight CO 086 at Shanghai's Pudong Airport, to go to the United States, he was stopped by the border inspection service and detained by the public security authorities on criminal charges. On 20 February he was returned to Hefei, in Anhui Province, for investigation. The public security authorities ascertained that he had indeed made use of a cult to perform illegal activities. On 9 March, the People's Government Re-education through Labour Committee of Hefei sentenced him to one year and six months of re-education through labour and so informed his father, Jiang Haichao. Jiang Feng and his family never appealed or challenged the decision in writing. Secondly, the Chinese Government wishes to reiterate that Falun Gong is not a religion. It is a cult of the worst kind. It makes use of the devious heresies it supplies to its practitioners to brainwash people into extremism, violating human rights, mutilating lives, undermining society and conducting a wide range of illegal and criminal activities. If the Chinese Government has, in accordance with the law, prohibited the Falun Gong organization, it is to protect the fundamental rights and freedoms of the people and to uphold the Constitution and the sanctity of the law. For the overwhelming majority of Falun Gong followers who have been swindled and cheated, the Chinese Government remains committed to conducting patient education activities to extricate them from Falun Gong's mind control and to allow them to resume a normal life. A small minority of criminals are subjected to punishment as they have engaged in criminal activity and broken the country's laws. There is no direct cause-and-effect relationship between this and whether or not they are practitioners of Falun Gong. China is a State governed by the rule of law. The Public Security Bureau has handled this case in accordance with the law. Coercive measures were taken against Jiang in accordance with the law because he made use of a cult to carry out illegal activities. When the coercive measures were applied all his rights were scrupulously respected. The Chinese Government respectfully requests that the foregoing be reproduced in its entirety in the relevant United Nations documents."

110. In the fourth communication, dated 5 July 2010, the Government replied to an urgent appeal transmitted on 30 April 2010, concerning Mr. Cao Du, a grantee of the United Nations Voluntary Fund for Indigenous Populations, who was reportedly abducted by the police at the Beijing Capital International Airport before boarding his flight to New York City to attend the ninth session of the United Nations Permanent Forum on Indigenous Issues and later taken to an unknown location. In this communication, the Government reported: "Receipt is hereby acknowledged of joint urgent appeal No. G/SO 218/2 G/SO 217/1 G/SO 214 (67-17) G/SO 214 (107-9) Indigenous (2001-8) CHN 12/2010 [China] dated 30 April from the Chairman of the Working Group on Arbitrary Detention, the Chairman of the Working Group on Enforced or Involuntary Disappearances, the Special Rapporteur on the promotion and protection of the right to freedom of opinion and expression, the Special Rapporteur on the situation of human rights and fundamental freedoms of indigenous peoples and the Special Rapporteur on the situation of human rights defenders, of the United Nations Human Rights Council. The Chinese Government has looked carefully into the matter referred to in the communication and wishes to make the following reply: Sodmongol, whose name as it appears in his passport is Cao Du, is an ethnic Mongolian male from Chifeng, Inner Mongolia, born in January 1965, and a teacher at the Ethnology Research Department of the Chaoyang City Teachers College of Technology in Liaoning Province. Because Cao was engaged in counterfeit book production and illegally publishing and selling book collections, he is suspected of economic crimes. On 20 April he was placed in criminal detention by the Chaoyang public security authorities. His case is being heard at the moment. China is a State governed by the rule of law, and the departments concerned have handled this case in accordance with the law. Measures have been taken against Cao in accordance with the law because he committed illegal acts. His every right has been upheld in accordance with the law. The Chinese Government respectfully requests that the foregoing be reproduced in its entirety in the relevant United Nations documents."

111. During the reporting period, the Government transmitted three communications to the Working Group.

112. In the first communication, dated 24 February 2011, the Government provided information concerning one outstanding case which was not considered sufficient to lead to its clarification. Its content is as follows: "In regard to the Urgent Appeal letter dated 23 March 2010 of the Special Rapporteur on Torture of the United Nations Human Rights Council (UA G/SO 214 (53-24) CHN 6/2010) and the Urgent Appeal letters dated 26 April 2010, 6 August 2010 and 21 December 2010 of the Working Group on Enforced Disappearances of the United Nations Human Rights Council (G/SO 217/1 China), the Chinese Government hereby gives the following reply after a careful investigation into the circumstances of those letters was carried out: I. GAO Zhisheng, male, born on 20 April 1964, was sentenced to a jail term of three years in 2006 for inciting subversion of State power, for which case he was granted a five-year reprieve yet deprived of political rights for one year. After GAO was sentenced to probation, under "The Criminal Law" and "The Administrative Regulations on the Supervision of Offenders under Control, Political Rights Deprivation, Probation, Parole or Medical Parole by the Public Security Organ", GAO was put under inspection and supervision by the public security organ. According to the above laws, with approval from the public security authorities, offenders sentenced to probation can relocate or leave their residence. GAO used to write and meet his family, and said he was doing well in life and was in good health for the past few months. II. China is a country ruled by law. The judiciary strictly complies with the law when handling cases. In this respect, no torture was ever applied to GAO, let alone any "enforced disappearance". The Chinese Government respectfully requests that the full text of the above be recorded in the relevant UN documents."

113. In the second communication, dated 14 July 2011, the Government replied to the urgent appeal transmitted on 11 May 2011.

114. The third communication, dated 11 October 2011, could not be translated in time for inclusion in the present report.

Information from sources

115. Information was received from sources concerning three outstanding cases. As a result, one case was clarified.

Clarification

116. Based on the information provided by sources, the Working Group decided to clarify one case.

Press releases

117. On 8 April 2011, the Working Group issued a press release showing serious concern at the wave of enforced disappearances that allegedly took place in China over the previous few months. The Working Group reminded that enforced disappearance is a crime under international law and that even short-term secret detentions can qualify as enforced disappearances. In addition, the Working Group stressed that there can never be an excuse to disappear people, especially when those persons are peacefully expressing their dissent with the Government of their country. In this press release, the Working Group also indicated that it continues to monitor cases which occurred in the past, including Messrs. Gedhun Choekyi Nyima, known as the 11th Panchen Lama, Gao Zhisheng, and Feng Jiang, and called on the Chinese authorities to release all those who have been disappeared and to provide full information on the fate and the whereabouts of the persons who have allegedly disappeared.<sup>b</sup>

118. On 8 June 2011, the Working Group issued a press release voicing its serious concern in relation to the reported enforced disappearance of more than 300 hundred Tibetan monks of the Ngaba Kirti Monastery, located in Ngaba County, Sichuan Province, in late April 2011. The Working Group called on the authorities to provide full information on the fate and the whereabouts of the persons who have disappeared and encouraged them to undertake full investigations into the on-going practice of enforced disappearances and ensure that those responsible are prosecuted and receive sentences appropriate to the gravity of the crime.<sup>c</sup>

119. On 1 November 2011, the Working Group and five other special procedures mandate holders issued a press release voicing grave concern over reports of heavy security measures, in and around the area of the Tibetan Buddhist Kirti monastery - which houses some 2,500 monks - and other monasteries in Aba County, an area of Sichuan province with many ethnic Tibetans in south-west China. In this press release, the Working Group highlighted that any enforced disappearance is unacceptable and such practices are in violation of international law while expressing concern that a proposed revision to the Chinese Criminal Procedure Law will legalise enforced disappearances in the country. In addition, the Working Group stated that this heinous practice is not permitted under any circumstances and that no exceptional circumstances whatsoever may be invoked to justify an enforced disappearance.<sup>d</sup>

Meetings

120. Representatives of the Government of the People's Republic of China met with the Working Group at its ninety-fourth session.

Total cases transmitted, clarified and outstanding

121. Since its establishment, the Working Group has transmitted 119 cases to the Government; of those, 12 cases have been clarified on the basis of information provided by the source, 77 cases have been clarified on the basis of information provided by the Government, and 30 remain outstanding.

Observations

122. The Working Group welcomes the meeting held with the Government, as well as the several responses received. However, the Working Group remains gravely concerned about various reports of the high number of alleged disappearances which took place in China during the reporting period, as reflected in the seven urgent appeals and two urgent actions transmitted to the Government.

123. The Working Group is also concerned about reports that proposed revisions to the Criminal Procedure Law will legalise enforced disappearances in the country. In this connection, the Working Group would like to recall article 3 of the Declaration, according to which "Each State shall take effective legislative, administrative, judicial or other measures to prevent and terminate acts of enforced disappearance in any territory under its jurisdiction."

124. The Working Group regrets that no response was received from the Government to its general allegation transmitted on 6 August 2010 (A/HRC/16/48, par. 118-21), concerning the unrests in Urumqi, Xinjiang in July 2009, which reportedly led to the detention of hundreds of Uighur young men and the disappearance of some of them; notwithstanding the reminder transmitted on 26 August 2011. The Working Group also regrets that, during the reporting period, no response has been received to a general allegation transmitted on 21 September 2011.

Press release

139. On 31 December 2010, the Working Group and five other United Nations human rights mechanisms issued a press release expressing deep concern about human rights violations reportedly being committed in Côte d'Ivoire in relation to the presidential elections. In this press release, the Working Group stressed that, when committed in certain circumstances, enforced disappearances may amount to a crime against humanity and that those who have perpetrated such horrendous acts shall be held accountable.<sup>f</sup>

Information from the Government

140. On 18 February 2011, the Government extended a general invitation to visit the country to special procedures mechanisms, including to those mechanisms which issued the press release dated 31 December 2010.

Observations

141. The Working Group has been concerned this year by numerous reports according to which enforced disappearances have occurred during the unrest at the time of the presidential elections. It looks forward to cooperate with the new Government to deal with these issues in the future. All enforced disappearances should be promptly investigated and persons accused of having committed such violations should be arrested and prosecuted. Trials should only be carried out in competent civilian courts and punishment be commensurate with the gravity of the crime; the individual and the collective right to know the truth about the practice of enforced disappearance in the country should be implemented; and victims of enforced disappearances should obtain redress and integral reparations.

Summary of the general allegation

161. Information was submitted by sources concerning obstacles encountered in the implementation of the Declaration on the Protection of all Persons from Enforced Disappearance in Egypt. This information was transmitted to the Government on 4 May 2011, after the Working Group's ninety-third session.

162. It was reported that the practice of enforced disappearances by the State Security Investigations (SSI) was used routinely before 2011. It has been alleged that SSI officers summon individuals or arrest them, after which the person disappears for a period of time, for up to two or three months.

163. It was further alleged that the disappeared persons were secretly detained at offices in local governorates for a few weeks, whereas longer-term detention occurs at SSI headquarters in Cairo, although reportedly, Egyptian law prohibits detention in SSI facilities, which are not recognized as official places of detention.

164. Allegedly, when families of the disappeared made informal enquiries with the police or prosecutor's office, officials either denied knowing the whereabouts of their relative, or informed them verbally, and informally, that SSI was detaining the person.

165. Sources alleged that SSI officers in late June - early July 2009 detained 24 persons in connection with the armed robbery of a Cairo jewellery shop in May 2008, and their alleged plans to carry out attacks on shipping in the Suez Canal, and held them in incommunicado for up to two months. Sources further reported that, in what is known as the Hizbollah case, SSI officers detained 22 defendants in incommunicado detention from the time of their arrest in late 2008 and early 2009 until they appeared before the State security prosecutor in July 2010.

166. No response was received from the Government during the reporting period regarding this general allegation.

Information from the Government

167. The Government transmitted three communications to the Working Group, dated 28 May, 4 June and 12 August 2010, which could not be translated in time for inclusion in the 2010 annual report (A/HRC/16/48).

168. In the first communication, the Government submitted a reply with regard to 18 outstanding cases, and requested additional information on six of them. Based on the information provided by the Government, the Working Group decided, at its 95th session, to apply the six-month rule to one case. The information provided concerning the remaining cases was considered insufficient to lead to their clarification.

169. The second and third communications concerned two outstanding cases which had been previously clarified by the sources.

170. During the reporting period, the Government transmitted one communication dated 11 October 2011. This communication concerned two outstanding cases, and the information provided was considered insufficient to lead to their clarification.

Request for a visit

171. On 30 June 2011, the Working Group requested an invitation to undertake a mission to the country. A reply has not yet been received.

Total cases transmitted, clarified and outstanding

172. Since its establishment, the Working Group has transmitted 66 cases to the Government; of those, 18 cases have been clarified on the basis of information provided by the source, seven cases have been clarified on the basis of information provided by the Government, and 41 remain outstanding.

Observations

173. The Working Group is concerned by the fact that, during the reporting period, it sent two cases under its urgent action procedure and four urgent appeals. Furthermore, the Working Group notes that after the general allegation was sent to the Government numerous changes have taken place in Egypt. The interim and new Governments should secure the fulfilment of the duties under the Declaration to ensure that cases of enforced disappearance are promptly investigated and persons accused of having committed these violations are arrested and prosecuted; that trials are only carried out in competent civilian courts and punishments are commensurate with the gravity of the crime; the individual and collective right to know the truth about the practice of enforced disappearance in the country and finally that the victims of enforced disappearance obtain redress and integral reparations.

174. The Working Group also regrets that no response has been received to the general allegation transmitted to the Government on 4 May 2011.

Urgent appeals

182. On 20 June 2011, the Working Group, jointly with three other special procedures mechanisms, transmitted an urgent appeal to the Government concerning the alleged disproportionate use of force by law enforcement authorities to disperse a demonstration by opposition supporters, on 26 May 2011. According to allegations, the fate and whereabouts of dozens of protesters who were detained during the demonstrations were unknown.

183. On 7 July 2011, the Government replied to the urgent appeal. It provided information on the reasons and legal basis of the dispersal of demonstrations and indicated that all of the detainees have been promptly brought before a judge within twelve hours as required by Georgian law. Moreover it indicated that most of the detainees were visited by legal attorneys speedily, and by the public defender of the country almost immediately. In addition it indicated that the International Committee of the Red Cross was given full opportunity to visit the detainees freely. It further stressed that no family approached the police to register a missing individual and/or start a search investigation. In this regard it also mentioned that the Ministry of Internal Affairs, on 27 May 2011, released a list of detainees and that since then no formal notification of missing demonstrators was submitted to the same ministry. Moreover, the Government reported that the Ministry scrupulously checked the information on missing persons made by the Public Defender as well as available in the media and that the allegation proved untrue. Finally, the Government indicated that it is closely inspecting all allegations of possible excessive use of force.

Finally, the Government reported that it provides security to the staff of the Foundation as they carry out their work in different parts of the country.

Summary of the general allegation

194. The Working Group received information from sources concerning reported obstacles encountered in the implementation of the Declaration on the Protection of All Persons from Enforced Disappearance in Guatemala. This information was transmitted to the Government on 9 September 2011, after the Working Group's ninety-fourth session.

195. It was alleged that there are obstacles in the advancement in criminal courts of cases of enforced disappearance and that, despite significant efforts and repeated calls upon Congress to make the necessary budgetary allocations, the Public Prosecutor's Office continues to lack the capacity and resources to advance in investigations of thousands of cases of enforced disappearance which, as a result, remain pending.

196. It was further reported that the extensive use by defendants and acceptance by the Courts of the recourse of amparo frequently constituted an obstacle to justice and delayed the criminal processes.

197. Detailed information has been received concerning the case of the enforced disappearance of Efraín Bámaca in 1992. Despite the sentence of the Inter-American Court of Human Rights in 2000, and its repeated orders of compliance between 2003 and 2010 ordering the re-opening of the case, and a 2005 request by the Public Prosecutor's Office to open the investigation, it is reported that the judicial investigation remains to be re-initiated. It is claimed that this delay of justice could set a worrying precedent in similar cases, effectively denying victims the rights to truth and justice.

198. Information has been further received concerning the lack of a National Search Commission, as was recommended by the Working Group in its report following its visit to Guatemala in 2006. Although an initiative has been discussed in Congress since 2007, it still has not been adopted. As a result, the fate and whereabouts of the large majority of the purported 45,000 cases of enforced disappearance from the armed conflict remain unknown. As these cases were not investigated, victims are left without knowing the truth and without access to an effective remedy.

199. It is further alleged that obstacles are encountered by the organizations and individuals involved in forensic investigations aimed at identifying victims of enforced disappearances.

200. No response was received from the Government regarding this general allegation during the reporting period.

Information from the Government

201. The Government transmitted five communications to the Working Group.

202. In the first communication, dated 16 December 2010, the Government transmitted information on the activities undertaken in the follow-up to the recommendations made by the Working Group following its visit to the country in 2006, which were reflected in A/HRC/16/48/Add.2.

203. In the second communication, dated 25 January 2011, the Government transmitted a copy of a letter that the Coordinator of the Historic Archives of the National Police (AHNP) sent to the Ministry for Foreign Affairs. In this letter, the Coordinator of the AHNPP reflected some of the contributions that the institution could do with regard to the clarification of the whereabouts of the thousands of detained-disappeared in Guatemala. In addition, he highlighted that the capacity and compromise of this institution to submit information, archival analysis and technical expertise to contribute to the clarification of many of the cases of victims of enforced disappearance that are registered with the Working Group are clearly established.

204. In the third communication, dated 9 August 2011, the Government transmitted a report on the measures it is taking to determine the whereabouts of the 2,899 persons who were victims of enforced disappearance. The report provided detailed information on the progress made with regard to investigations.

205. In the fourth communication, dated 14 October 2011, the Government replied to the prompt intervention letter transmitted on 18 August 2011. In the fifth communication, dated 21 October 2011, the Government retransmitted the information provided on 14 October 2011.

Meetings

206. Representatives of the Government of Guatemala met with the Working Group at its ninety-third session.

Observations

207. The Working Group thanks the Government of Guatemala for the information provided including that which originated from the Historic Archives of the National Police. As the Working Group stated in its report on its visit to Guatemala, the historic archives may possess crucial information that can clearly determine the fate or whereabouts of the disappeared people. It wishes to recall its General Comment on the right to the truth in relation to enforced disappearances, which states that “archives ... should be preserved and made fully accessible to the public”.

208. In addition, the Working Group acknowledges with thanks the information provided by Government with regard to the prompt intervention letter transmitted during the reporting period and recalls article 13.3 of the Declaration, according to which States must take steps to ensure that persons involved in investigations of cases of enforced disappearance, including the complainant, counsel, witnesses and those conducting the investigation, are protected against ill-treatment, intimidation or reprisal.

211. All outstanding cases were retransmitted and, regrettably, no response was received from the Government. A summary of the situation in the country appears in E/CN.4/2006/56 and Corr. 1 and A/HRC/4/41.

Urgent actions

212. The Working Group transmitted two cases under its urgent action procedure to the Government. The first case concerned Mr. Oscar Elías López Muñoz, who was allegedly arrested by agents of the National Directorate of Criminal Investigation in San Pedro Sula, Department of Cortés, on 21 August 2011. Mr. López Muñoz was the subject of an urgent appeal previously transmitted to the Government. The second case concerned Mr. José Reinaldo Cruz Palma, who was allegedly arrested by individuals believed to be agents of the National Directorate of Criminal Investigation and of the National Preventative Police when travelling from La Lima to San Pedro Sula, on 30 August 2011. Allegedly, a police patrol witnessed the arrest and, after the events, it left in a different direction.

Urgent appeals

213. On 27 September 2011, the Working Group, jointly with another special procedures mechanism, transmitted an urgent appeal concerning Mr. Oscar Elías López Muñoz. He was allegedly arrested by agents of the National Directorate of Criminal Investigation in San Pedro Sula, Department of Cortés, on 21 August 2011. The Working Group later transmitted the allegations concerning Mr. Oscar Elías López Muñoz as an urgent action.

Total cases transmitted, clarified and outstanding

214. Since its establishment, the Working Group has transmitted 209 cases to the Government; of those, 37 cases have been clarified on the basis of information provided by the Government, 43 cases have been clarified on the basis of information provided by the source, and 129 remain outstanding.

Observations

215. The Working Group notes with concern that, during the reporting period, it transmitted two cases under its urgent action procedure, one of them also as an urgent appeal. The Working Group recalls article 2.1 of the Declaration which states that “No State shall practise, permit or tolerate enforced disappearances”, as well as article 3, which provides that “Each State shall take effective legislative, administrative, judicial or other measures to prevent and terminate acts of enforced disappearance in any territory under its jurisdiction.”

The Government acknowledged receipt of this case.

217. The second case concerned Mr. Gurumayum Jeetseshwor Sharma, also known as G.M. Changjou or Gypsy, who was allegedly arrested at his house located in Duncan, Dimapur on 18 August 2011, by a combined team of unidentified Indian Security Forces and Manipur Police Commandos.

Communication from the Working Group

218. According to the Working Group’s methods of work, the Government of India received a copy of the case of Mr. Rajkumar Sanayaima Rajkumar, which is recorded under the Government of Bangladesh (see paragraph 50).

General allegations

Summary of the general allegation

219. The Working Group received information from credible sources concerning obstacles encountered in the implementation of the Declaration on the Protection of All Persons from Enforced Disappearance in India. This information was transmitted to the Government on 11 February 2011, after the Working Group's ninety-second session.

220. It was reported that between 1989 and 2009 the actions of military and paramilitary forces in Kashmir have resulted in more than 8,000 enforced and involuntary disappearances. It was reported that in the majority of instances related to enforced disappearances, civilians have been detained during cordon and search operations. In certain instances, non-combatant persons were extra-judicially executed following detention, and labeled afterwards by the Government of India, and the authorities in Jammu and Kashmir as militants who emigrated to Azad Kashmir in Pakistan to seek arms training. It was reported that acts of oppression and violence towards presumed insurgents were deemed as acts of service, which were rewarded and compensated.

221. It was alleged that security forces personnel selected local male residents or professional gravediggers, usually those respected within the local community, and asked that graves be prepared to bury the dead. The graveyards were constructed on local religious or community owned or used land and dug by local residents at the coercion of security personnel. In instances where the number of bodies brought by security personnel exceeded the initial count given by security personnel, more than one body was buried in each grave. The bodies examined were routinely delivered at night, and some of them were bearing marks of torture and burns. Photographs of the dead were reportedly documented by local police stations, while identification occurred through clothing and distinguishing features or numbering.

222. According to the source, between April 2008 and November 2009, a total of 2,700 graves were examined by civil society organisations in three provinces, encompassing a total of 55 villages. It was documented that in the Baramulla province 1,321 bodies were found; in the Kupwara province 1,487 bodies were found; and in the Bandipora province 135 bodies were found. In 177 cases, a grave contained more than one body, resulting in the discovery of more than 420 bodies. It was alleged that approximately 99 percent of those buried were men. Gravediggers and caretakers were unable to give an exact number of bodies, given the extent of defacement of some of them.

223. The source alleges that numerous exhumed bodies that were found in unknown graves were identified as local inhabitants, both civilian and militant, who were victims of extrajudicial executions. According to the source, it was found that civilian residents from one geographic area in Kashmir were killed in another area and, at times, transferred to a third area for burial. There are allegations that some people were killed in the state of Gujarat in India, outside of Kashmir. It was alleged that security forces manufactured the identities of victims and their records of weapons possession.

224. The source further alleges that the persons who were forced to bury the dead in unmarked and unknown graves suffered psychological health impact as a consequence. Also, it is reported that, in some cases, these graveyards are placed next to schools and homes, impacting on women and children.

225. The Government has not responded to the general allegation during the reporting period.

Information from the Government

226. The Government transmitted six communications to the Working Group.

227. In the first communication, dated 30 November 2010, the Government provided information on one outstanding case, which was considered insufficient to lead to its clarification.

228. In the second communication, dated 6 December 2010, the Government replied to the prompt intervention letter transmitted on 21 July 2010, regarding the arrests and detentions of Mr. Ghulam Nabi Shaheen and Mr. Mian Abdul Qayoom reportedly based on, inter alia, their work on alleged human rights violations including enforced disappearances in Kashmir. The Government reported that the individuals, who were involved in secessionist's activities and other acts highly prejudicial to the security of the State, were arrested following due procedure as laid down by the law and produced before the Court. This matter is sub judice.

229. In the third, fourth, fifth and sixth communications, dated 17 December 2010, 16 and 17 May 2011, and 11 August 2011, the Government provided information on five, one, 33, and one outstanding case respectively. The information provided in relation to all of these cases was considered insufficient to lead to their clarification.

Information from sources

230. Sources provided information on two outstanding cases. One case was clarified as a result.

Clarification

231. Following the information provided by the source, the Working Group decided to clarify one case.

232. Following the expiration of the six-month rule, the Working Group decided to clarify 16 cases.

Request for a visit

233. On 16 August 2010, the Working Group requested an invitation to undertake a mission to the country. On 18 August 2010, the Government acknowledged receipt of the request. A reminder letter was transmitted on 18 August 2011. On 29 August 2011, the Government replied that the request was conveyed to the relevant authorities in India.

Total cases transmitted, clarified and outstanding

234. Since its establishment, the Working Group has transmitted 433 cases to the Government; of those, 12 cases have been clarified on the basis of information provided by the source, 68 cases have been clarified on the basis of information provided by the Government, and 353 remain outstanding.

Observations

235. The Working Group remains concerned about allegations of a widespread practice of enforced disappearances between 1989 and 2009 and the existence of mass graves. According to the Declaration, the Government is under obligation to investigate those allegations and bring to justice those responsible. Additionally, the right to know the truth about the fate and the whereabouts includes, when the disappeared person is found to be dead, the right of the family to have the remains of their loved one returned to them, and to dispose of those remains according to their own tradition, religion or culture. The remains of the person should be clearly and indisputably identified, including through DNA analysis securing the full participation of the family and without fully informing the general public of such measures.

236. The Working Group regrets that no response was received from the Government of India to its general allegation sent on 16 January 2009 (A/HRC/13/31, par. 260-6), concerning legal provisions in India that may hamper the right to a prompt and effective remedy, notwithstanding the reminder transmitted on 26 August 2011. The Working Group also regrets that no response was received from the Government regarding the general allegation transmitted on 11 February 2011.

Summary of the general allegation

238. The Working Group received information from credible sources concerning obstacles encountered in the implementation of the Declaration on the Protection of All Persons from Enforced Disappearance in Indonesia. This information was transmitted to the Government on 13 January 2011, after the Working Group's ninety-second session.

239. It was reported that, between 1997 and 1998, a number of students and other activists who opposed the former President Suharto's New Order regime were victims of enforced disappearance in Indonesia. According to the source, while nine of the students originally abducted were released later (Pius Lustrilanang, Desmon J Mahesa, Haryanto Taslam, Mugiyanto, Aan Rusdianto, Faisol Reza, Rahardja Waluya Jati, Nezar Patria and Andi Aref), 13 remain disappeared: Suyat, Yani Afri, Sonny, M. Yusuf, Noval Alkatiri, Dedy Hamdun, Ismail, Bimo Petrus, Abdun Naser, Hendra Hambali, Ocok Siahaan, Yadin Muhidin and Wiji Thukul. However, according to the source, no effective measures are being undertaken to investigate these cases.

240. Reportedly, in October 2006, the National Commission for Human Rights (Komnas HAM) released the results of an inquiry that made reference to numerous human rights violations against these activists, including torture and enforced disappearance, and requested reparations for the victims and their families. The report was later submitted to the Attorney General, to investigate the alleged crimes.

241. The source informed the Working Group that the Attorney General did not follow up the recommendations made by Komnas Ham because he argued that, according to article 43 of Law No. 26/2000, the establishment of an ad hoc Human Rights Court by the Parliament was a precondition to any investigation. However, the source indicated that, in previous opportunities, ad hoc courts were established only after the Attorney General had conducted investigations. The source also indicated that, on 21 February 2008, the Constitutional Court issued Decree No. 18/PUU-V/2007 which interpreted article 43 of Law 26/2000 in the sense that mere allegations of gross violations of human rights are not a sufficient basis for the Parliament to establish an ad-hoc Human Rights Court. Instead, the Attorney General has to conduct an investigation to give the Parliament the necessary information to enable it to establish an ad hoc Human Rights Court.

242. In this context, the source alleged that it is not necessary to establish an ad hoc Human Rights Court for the Attorney General to conduct investigations. On the contrary, the source sustains that the legislation requires that after the Attorney General concluded the investigation and the Parliament recommended the establishment of an ad-hoc Human Rights Court, the President issues a decree to enable the formal establishment of the ad hoc Human Rights Court.

243. In addition, the source informed the Working Group that to move the case forward, on 27 February 2007, the House of Representatives established a Special Committee regarding cases of abductions and enforced disappearances of student activists in 1997 and 1998. As this Committee proved ineffective, the House of Representatives established a new Special Committee in October 2008. It was reported that this Committee issued the following recommendations: first, the President should establish an ad hoc Human Rights Court; second, the President and other relevant Government institutions should take appropriate steps to immediately locate the whereabouts of the 13 people that are still disappeared; third, the President should facilitate the rehabilitation and satisfactory compensation to the victims and their families; and fourth, the Government should ratify the International Convention for the Protection of all Persons from Enforced Disappearance. On 28 September 2009, the plenary of the House of Representatives agreed with the recommendations of the Special Committee and recommended that the President establish an ad hoc Human Rights Court to deal with the 1997-1998 disappearances. However, according to the source, no concrete actions have been taken so far.

244. No response was received from the Government during the reporting period regarding this general allegation.

Request for a visit

245. On 12 December 2006, the Working Group requested an invitation to undertake a mission to Indonesia. The Government responded that it would not be possible to receive the Working Group during 2007 and that greater benefit would be derived from a visit at a later date. Reminder letters were sent on 16 August 2010 and 18 August 2011. No reply has been received during the reporting period.

Observations

246. The Working Group would like to recall article 4.1 of the Declaration, which states that “All acts of enforced disappearance shall be offences under criminal law punishable by appropriate penalties which shall take into account their extreme seriousness.”

247. The Working Group considers that the right to obtain redress (article 19 of the Declaration) cannot be satisfied unless judicial decisions are properly implemented. In this sense, it recalls that effective decisions constitute an instrument through which States comply with its obligation under the Declaration, “to contribute by all means to the prevention and eradication of enforced disappearance” (article 2). The Working Group further recalls that “enforced disappearances render their perpetrators and the State or State authorities which organize, acquiesce in or tolerate such disappearances liable under civil law, without prejudice to the international responsibility of the State concerned” (article 5).

248. The Working Group regrets that no response was received from the Government to the general allegation transmitted on 13 January 2011.

Urgent Appeals

253. The Working Group transmitted three communications under its urgent appeals procedure to the Government.

254. The first communication was transmitted on 11 January 2011, jointly with four other special procedures mechanisms, and concerned reports regarding the pattern of executions, arrests and detentions carried out and which may be carried out in the country. In this regard, it was reported, inter alia, that Mr. Reza Sharifi Bukani was allegedly transferred from Cellblock 4 at Rajayi Shahr (Gohardasht) Prison in Karaj to an undisclosed location on 27 December 2010.

255. On 4 February and 21 June 2011, the Government transmitted a reply with regard to certain allegations contained in this urgent appeal. However, no information was provided with regard to Mr. Reza Sharifi Bukani.

256. The second communication was transmitted on 22 February 2011, jointly with four other special procedures mechanisms, and concerned reports of arrests and detention of members of religious minorities, in particular those belonging to the Christian and the Baha'i faiths. It was reported, inter alia, that Mr. Leonard Keshishian, who is pastor with the Assemblies of God Church in Isfahan, was arrested on 31 December 2010 and his place of detention remained undisclosed.

257. The third communication was transmitted on 19 October 2011, jointly with seven other special procedures mechanisms, and concerned the situation of human rights defenders in Iran. In this regard, it was reported, inter alia, that on 31 July 2011, Messrs. Kouhyar Goudarzi and Behnam Ganji were arrested in Teheran by plain-clothed security forces. They were reportedly brought, along with a third individual, to an undisclosed location and later transferred to Teheran's Evin prison. It is further reported that a few days after the arrest, Mr. Goudarzi's friends and family requested information regarding his whereabouts but the Tehran Prosecutor's Office and the prosecutor's office in Evin prison denied the arrest. Furthermore, it is alleged that requests by Mr. Goudarzi's lawyer to the Government for information regarding his whereabouts and condition have been denied.

Communications from the Working Group

258. According to the Working Group's methods of work, the Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran received a copy of the case concerning Mr. Taher Eslambolipoor, an Iranian citizen, which is recorded under the Government of Iraq (see paragraph 267).

Information from the Government

259. The Government transmitted two communications dated 4 February and 21 June 2011, regarding the urgent appeal transmitted on 11 January 2011.

Information from sources

260. Sources provided information on four outstanding cases. As a result, one case was clarified.

Clarification

261. Following the information provided by sources, the Working Group decided to clarify one case.

Request for a visit

262. The Government of Iran agreed to a visit by the Working Group in 2004, which was delayed at the request of the Government. Reminder letters were sent on 20 July 2009, 16 August 2010 and 18 August 2011, asking the Government to set a date for the proposed visit. The Government has not yet set a new date for the visit despite the fact that more than six years have elapsed.

Total cases transmitted, clarified and outstanding

263. Since its establishment, the Working Group has transmitted 536 cases to the Government; of those, five cases have been clarified on the basis of information provided by the source, 14 cases have been clarified on the basis of information provided by the Government, and 517 remain outstanding.

Observations

264. The Working Group notes with concern that it sent four urgent actions and three urgent appeals during the reporting period. The Working Group recalls article 2.1 of the Declaration which states that “No State shall practise, permit or tolerate enforced disappearances”, as well as article 3, which provides that “Each State shall take effective legislative, administrative, judicial or other measures to prevent and terminate acts of enforced disappearance in any territory under its jurisdiction.”

Standard procedure

267. The Working Group transmitted two newly-reported cases to the Government. The first case concerned Mr. Taher Eslambolipoor, an Iranian citizen, who was allegedly abducted on 14 November 2006. The first one was transmitted on 27 April 2011, jointly with four other special procedures mechanisms, and concerned the alleged excessive use of force against peaceful protesters by Iraqi security forces during the peaceful demonstrations, which have been taking place in Baghdad since early February 2011. More specifically, it was reported that Mr. Haidar Shihab Ahmad Abdel Latif had been detained by Iraqi security forces during a demonstration in Tahrir Square, Baghdad, on 1 April 2011.

271. The Working Group later transmitted the allegations concerning Mr. Qussai Abdelraouf Nasser as an urgent action.

Summary of the general allegation

272. Information was submitted by sources concerning obstacles encountered in the implementation of the Declaration on the Protection of all Persons from Enforced Disappearance in Iraq. This information was transmitted to the Government on 4 May 2011, after the Working Group's ninety-third session.

273. It was reported that Iraqi security forces have been operating secret detention facilities in Baghdad. It was further alleged that one secret detention site was located in a Justice Ministry detention facility at Camp Justice, known as Justice 2 (Sijn al-Adaleh 2).

274. It was reported that in November 2010, Iraqi authorities transferred more than 280 detainees to a secret site within Camp Justice, a military base in northwest Baghdad just before an international inspection team was to examine conditions at the detainees' previous location at Camp Honor in the Green Zone.

275. It was alleged that about 80 of the 280 detainees were being held by the 56th Brigade at the secret site and have had no access to lawyers or family members. It is also reported that prison inspectors were not permitted to conduct visits to the section of the facility. It is also alleged that the Counter-Terrorism Service was holding the rest of these detainees.

276. It was alleged that detainees are held incommunicado and in inhumane conditions, often for months at a time. It is alleged that interrogators beat the detainees, hung them upside down for hours at a time, administered electric shocks to various body parts, including the genitals, and asphyxiated them repeatedly with plastic bags put over their heads until they passed out.

277. It has also been reported that another secret prison was being run by the 54th Brigade, with the assistance of the 56th Brigade, in the old Muthanna airport in Western Baghdad. It is alleged that this secret prison held about 430 detainees who were denied access to their families or lawyers and were tortured.

Reply from the Government

278. The Government replied to the general allegation on 19 July 2011.

279. Regarding the allegation that a secret detention site was located in one of the Ministry of Justice's detention facilities at Camp Justice, known as Justice 2, the Government responded that Justice 2 is under the authority of the Iraqi Department of Corrections in the Ministry of Justice and is subject to regular periodic visits by prisons and detention centres inspections teams from the Ministry of Justice. With regard to Camp Honour, the Iraqi Ministry of Justice officially declared that the camp would be closed in mid-May of this year. The High Council of the Judiciary has confirmed that Camp Honour detainees were relocated to [other] sections of the Iraqi Department of Corrections by means of a phased transfer, rather than a simultaneous transfer.

280. The Government noted that its Ministry's annual reports pointed to shortcomings in the prisons and detention centre and indicated that there was overcrowding. The Ministry recommended that the situation should be tackled by expediting the cases of detainees and avoiding prolonged periods of detention.

281. With regard to the allegation that another secret prison was being run by the 54th Brigade, with the assistance of the 56th Brigade, in the old Muthanna airport in Western Baghdad, the Government noted that its teams frequently visit the 54th Brigade site at Al-Muthanna military airport and have not found any secret prison there. The Government indicated that it was informed by the administration that the 56th Brigade's policy is to transfer persons detained by members of the Brigade immediately to its detention centre.

282. In conclusion, the Government stated that its Ministry plays a positive role in the monitoring and documentation process with regard to alleged or observed violations. The Government shared with the Working Group statistics for 2008, 2009 and 2010 on the outcomes of actions taken in relation to acts of torture, indicating actions taken, in addition to follow-up actions with the judicial authorities and the administrations of prisons and detention centres.

Information from the Government

283. The Government submitted two communications dated 15 March and 11 November 2010, which were not reflected in the 2010 annual report (A/HRC/16/48).

284. In the first communication, the Government provided information on 16 outstanding cases. Based on this information, the Working Group decided to apply to six-month rule to nine cases at its ninety-fourth session. Concerning one case, the information provided was considered insufficient to lead to its clarification. The remaining six cases had been previously clarified by the source. In this communication, the Government also provided information with regard to the processing of cases of enforced disappearances of Iraqi nationals and non-nationals under the former regime.

285. In the second communication, the Government provided information on one case which had previously been clarified by the source and provided a copy of the instrument of accession to the International Convention for the Protection of All Persons from Enforced Disappearance.

286. During the reporting period, the Government transmitted one communication dated 19 July 2011, replying to a general allegation transmitted on 4 May 2011, concerning the existence of secret detention facilities in Baghdad.

Information from sources

287. Information was received from sources concerning one outstanding case, confirming the information provided by the Government and, consequently, leading to its clarification.

Clarification

288. On the basis of the information provided by the Government, the Working Group decided to clarify one case following the confirmation from the source.

Meeting

289. Representatives of the Government of Iraq met with the Working Group at its ninety-fifth session.

Total cases transmitted, clarified and outstanding

290. Since its establishment, the Working Group has transmitted 16,548 cases to the Government; of those, 30 cases have been clarified on the basis of information provided by the source, 108 cases have been clarified on the basis of information provided by the Government, and 16,410 remain outstanding.

Observations

291. The Working Group notes with concern that, during the reporting period, it transmitted two urgent appeals and that the allegations on one of them were later transmitted as an urgent action. The Working Group recalls article 2.1 of the Declaration which states that “No State shall practise, permit or tolerate enforced disappearances”, as well as article 3, which provides that “Each State shall take effective legislative, administrative, judicial or other measures to prevent and terminate acts of enforced disappearance in any territory under its jurisdiction.”

292. In addition, the Working Group reminds the Government of its obligations under the Declaration that “any person deprived of liberty shall be held in an officially recognized place of detention and, in conformity with national law, be brought before a judicial authority promptly after detention” (article 10).

Communication from the Working Group

295. According to the Working Group's usual practice, the Government of Italy received a copy of the general allegation that was transmitted to the Government of Morocco on 13 January 2011, after the Working Group's ninety-second session (see paragraphs 393-398).

296. It was reported that, in the context of the application of law 03-03 in the fight against terrorism, in force since 5 June 2003, there have been several cases of people arrested and held in secret detention for several days and, on some occasions, months. It was further reported that some of the individuals were arrested by Italian police officers while they were residing in Italy. In particular, it was reported that Mr. Ahmed Arrahmouni, born in 1988, and Mr. Mohamed Hilal, both university students usually residing in Parma, Italy, were allegedly arrested by the Italian police on 19 April 2010, and turned over to the Moroccan authorities the same day. On 27 January 2011, the Government acknowledged receipt of this communication.

Reply from the Government

297. On 28 September 2011, the Government of Italy replied to a general allegation transmitted on 15 May 2009, concerning its alleged involvement in a practice of renditions and secret detention (A/HRC/13/31, par. 310-4), of which a reminder was sent on 26 August 2011.

298. It reported that in connection to the case of Mr. Nasr Osama Mustafa Hassan, it replied on several occasions, including during the discussion before the Committee against Torture in May 2007 and following the Working Group on Arbitrary Detention mission's report to Italy in January 2009. The Government stated that it also replied on related issues, including on the role of the Italian Intelligence and Military Security Service (SISMI), in December 2007, on the International Convention for the Protection of All Persons from Enforced Disappearance, in October 2008, and on secret detention and extraordinary rendition, in July 2009.

299. The Government reported that at the conclusion of the judicial investigation (Inquiry No. 10838/05.21) on 5 December 2006, the State's Public Prosecutor Office in Milan requested the referral for trial of approximately 26 people serving at the time of the event at SISMI. The request was later confirmed by the Milan Tribunal on 16 February 2007.

300. The Government indicated that during the proceedings, Mr. L.P., a marshal of the Carabinieri Corps based in Milan, admitted his involvement in the abduction of Mr. Nasr Osama Mustafa Hassan. He was sentenced to a one-year-nine-months-and-ten-days detention penalty pursuant to article 444 of the penal code on 16 February 2007. The marshal was also suspended from his service within Carabinieri Corps, in accordance with the internal disciplinary proceeding.

301. The Government reported that it filed a complaint before the Constitutional Court on 14 March 2007, alleging a conflict of competence between the Government and the judicial authorities in Milan, due to the use by the latter of evidence obtained by violating the State secrecy law. Following a decision by the Constitutional Court issued in April 2009 that partially granted the request from the Government, the judicial authorities in Milan resumed the trial.

302. On 4 November 2009, the Tribunal in Milan released a verdict, by which almost all the defendants were convicted, save the charges of abduction brought against Mr. Niccolò Pollari, the former Director of the SISMI at the time, Mr. Marco Mancini, a former SISMI officer, and three Italian officers. Three members of the CIA were deemed protected by the Tribunal. Nevertheless, the Government indicated that the Tribunal decided that a compensation amounting to one million Euros and 500,000.00 Euros should be paid respectively to Mr. Nasr Osama Mustafa Hassan and his wife.

303. The Court of Assise of Appeal later confirmed the conviction of 25 individuals including 22 CIA agents, on 15 December 2010.

304. The Government recalled that according to articles 24 -25 -27 – 101 - 111 and 112 of the Constitution, the presumption of innocence remains until a definitive verdict is issued by the Court of Cassation, at the conclusion of a fair trial. Such approach is strictly linked to the enforcement of the so-called "principle of the double level of adjudication" characterised by three possible levels of trial, the last of which is before the Court of Cassation.

305. The Government therefore indicated that as long as the proceedings before the Milan Court continue, it cannot draw any conclusions, prior to a definitive verdict by the Court and reiterated its commitment to provide updates and clarifications on the case.

Summary of the general allegation

312. Information was submitted by sources concerning obstacles encountered in the implementation of the Declaration on the Protection of All Persons from Enforced Disappearance in Kenya. This information was transmitted to the Government on 9 September 2011, after the Working Group's ninety-third session.

313. The source informed the Working Group that, between 2006 and 2008, hundreds of enforced disappearances were perpetrated in the Mt. Elgon district. These enforced disappearances took place in the context of the conflict that occurred between State authorities and the Sabaot Land Defence Forces (SLDF). It was reported that most of the disappearances were carried out in 2009 when the Government launched a joint military-police operation, called "Okoka Maisha", against the SLDF. According to sources, most males in Mt. Elgon district, sometimes even children, were arrested and detained by security forces and often subjected to torture. It appears that those who died were thrown into mass grave sites. Reportedly, those grave sites are not protected and have not been exhumed for the purpose of identifying the remains contained therein.

314. It was alleged that no serious investigations of those disappearances were conducted. The events of Mt. Elgon are excluded from the mandate of both the Commission of Inquiry into the Post Election Violence Experience in Kenya after the General Election (CIPEV) and the Truth, Justice and Reconciliation Commission (TJRC). Furthermore, it was also alleged that the court summons delivered by a pre-trial chamber of the International Criminal Court against six individuals does not encompass the events that occurred at Mt. Elgon.

315. The source alleged that the Criminal Code of Kenya does not contain an autonomous crime of enforced disappearance. It also supports the view that the criminal code does not exclude statutory limitations as far as enforced disappearances. Reportedly, the families of the persons subjected to enforced disappearances were threatened to not report violations and were therefore afraid to participate as witnesses in proceedings due to harassment and threats by security personnel. Finally, it was reported that no reparation has been provided to the victims.

316. No response was received from the Government regarding this general allegation.

Observations

317. The Working Group reminds the Government of its obligations under the Declaration to investigate matters concerning enforced disappearances, to punish those responsible, and to provide reparations to victims (articles 3 and 19).

318. The Working Group regrets that no response was received from the Government concerning the general allegation transmitted on 9 September 2011.

329. The Working Group transmitted one case under its urgent action procedure. The case concerned Mr. Salem al Ragoubi Salem Mohamed, who was allegedly abducted from his home in Tripoli by around twenty members of the Internal Security Services, on 28 June 2011.

Urgent Appeals

330. The Working Group transmitted four communications under its urgent appeals procedure.

331. The first communication was transmitted on 23 February 2011, jointly with six other special procedures mechanisms, concerning the reported deaths of at least 233 people and the excessive use of force against protesters by security forces in the context of the demonstrations, which had taken place across the country since 15 February 2011. More specifically, it was reported that four brothers, Messrs. Al Mahdi Saleh Hmeed, Sadek Saleh Hmeed, Ali Saleh Hmeed, and Fredj Saleh Hmeed, were allegedly arrested in their home in Tripoli and taken to an undisclosed location by the Libyan security forces, on 16 February 2011.

332. On 4 March 2011, sources informed that the four brothers had been released.

333. The second communication was transmitted on 14 March 2011, jointly with four other special procedures mechanisms, concerning Messrs. Ghaith Abdul-Ahad and Andrei Netto, who were reportedly abducted by Government forces while travelling in the area called Zawiyah in western Libya, on 10 March 2011. Moreover it was reported that the Libyan authorities admitted holding these two individuals but refused to inform about their whereabouts.

334. The third communication was transmitted on 18 March 2011, jointly with three other special procedures mechanisms, concerning Messrs. Safa Aldin Hilal Mohamed Al Shareef, who was allegedly arrested by Internal Security Forces agents at his workplace in Ras Lanouf, on 15 February 2011; Adel Abdallah Almadaa Salah, who was allegedly arrested by Internal Security Forces agents in a hotel in Tripoli on 18 February 2011; Abdalsalem Alqanashi, who was allegedly arrested by internal security forces agents at the Libyan-Egyptian border on 19 February 2011; Ali Mubarak Omran, who was allegedly arrested by a group of persons supporting the central military troops at Al Abrak airport on 19 February 2011; Alsadek Almabrouk Hamada Bridan, who allegedly disappeared from Abu Slim prison when internal security forces were evacuating the prisoners on 16 February 2011. In addition, the urgent appeal concerned Messrs. Abdalkarim Mohamed Abdalkarim, Salah Almabrouk Saad, Abdallah Abdalsilam Khalifa, Nasser Amar Ali, Farj Amar Ali, Assam Mohamed Abdalrazak Shahat, Ali Mohamed Salah, Souad Ali Boumbrika, Abdessalam Youness, and Adam Masaoud Mohamed Idrisswere, who were allegedly abducted by a group of people supporting the central military troops in Al Abrak airport where they were last seen on 19 February 2011. Finally, the urgent appeal made reference to reports that hundreds of recruits of the Air Force Academy allegedly disappeared. It further referred to an alarming figure of hundreds of persons allegedly detained in unknown places.

335. The fourth communication was transmitted on 31 March 2011, jointly with four other special procedures mechanisms, concerning fourteen journalists who may have been subjected to enforced disappearance while reporting in Libya, namely: Messrs. Ahmand Val Wald-Eddin, Lufti Al-Massoudi, Ammar Al-Hamdan, Kamil Al-Tallou, Dave Clark, Joe Raedle, Roberto Schmidt, Atef al-Atrash, Mohamed al-Sahim, Mohamed al-Amin, Idris al-Mismar, Salma al-Shaab, Suad al-Turabouls, and Stéphane Lehr.

Request for a visit

336. On 28 October 2011, the Working Group requested the Government to undertake a visit to the country. On 31 October 2011, the Government replied that it will extend an invitation to the Working Group once the situation in the country returns to normal and once a Government is formed.

Press Releases

337. On 24 March 2011, the Working Group issued a press release expressing deep concern about allegations received according to which hundreds of enforced disappearances had been committed over the previous few months in Libya. The Working Group recalled that enforced disappearances may amount to a crime against humanity when perpetrated in certain circumstances.<sup>8</sup>

Total cases transmitted, clarified and outstanding

338. Since its establishment, the Working Group has transmitted 16 cases to the Government; of those, seven cases have been clarified on the basis of information provided by the source and nine remain outstanding.

Observations

339. The Working Group has been gravely concerned about the number of allegations of enforced disappearances received during the reporting period, as reflected in the urgent action and the four urgent appeals transmitted to the Government, which make reference to several individuals.

340. The Working Group welcomes the willingness shown by the new Government to consider the possibility of extending an invitation for a visit in the future.

341. The Working Group encourages the new Government to secure the fulfilment of its obligations under the Declaration to ensure that cases of enforced disappearance are promptly investigated and persons accused of having committed these violations are arrested and prosecuted; that trials are only carried out in competent civilian courts and punishments are commensurate with the gravity of the crime; the individual and collective right to the truth about the practice of enforced disappearance in the country; and finally that the victims of acts of enforced disappearance obtain redress and integral reparations, including the means for as complete a rehabilitation as possible (articles 3, 13, 18, and 19).

342. The Working Group would also like to recall article 7 of the Declaration, which states that “No circumstances whatsoever, whether a threat of war, a state of war, internal political instability or any other public emergency, may be invoked to justify enforced disappearances.”

Urgent Appeals

355. The Working Group transmitted two communications under its urgent appeal procedure to the Government.

356. The first communication was transmitted on 19 January 2011, jointly with three other special procedures mechanisms, concerning the alleged disappearance of a group of migrants and the subsequent harassment and threats against Father Solalinde and his collaborators in “Albergue de Migrantes hermanos en el Camino de la Esperanza,” a shelter for migrants in Oaxaca.

357. On 7 February 2011, the Government replied to this urgent appeal and reported that the train in which the migrants were travelling was stopped by an operation of the National Institute of Migration (INM), which in coordination with the Federal Police and members of the Mexican Army resulted in the detention of 92 persons. It was further reported that thereafter, the train continued its journey and was boarded by other migrants who managed to evade the operation. Later, the train was stopped because the track was obstructed with timber and the driver heard shots in the back of the train, without verifying what was happening. The Government provided information on the investigations underway as well as on other measures taken with regard to these events, including the reinforcement of the security for Father Solalinde and his shelter. In addition, it reported that the INM in coordination with several Government agencies began, in April 2010, a series of meetings in order to develop an Integral Strategy for the Combat of the Kidnapping of Undocumented Migrants that travel through the country. Finally, it informed on the guarantees to the effective protection of the human rights of the migrants who transit the territory where the facts occurred.

358. The second communication was transmitted on 2 September 2011, jointly with another special procedures mechanism, concerning the alleged detention and ill-treatment of a minor by agents of the National Defence Secretariat (Secretaría de la Defensa Nacional) on 25 July 2011. According to the source, the minor was at risk of being subjected to enforced disappearance. Reportedly, he has been taken to the detention center (Centro Nacional de Arraigo) and threatened to confess his alleged participation in an armed confrontation in Nuevo Laredo. Reportedly, the circumstances of his case were similar to those related to another minor who had been allegedly arrested, forced to pledge guilty for the charges against him, and who had later disappeared.

359. On 3 September 2011, the source reported that the minor who had been the subject of the urgent appeal had been released.

Prompt intervention

360. On 2 November 2011, the Working Group sent a prompt intervention letter to the Government regarding the alleged acts of intimidation and threats against the Muñoz family after they filed a criminal complaint at the Attorney General's Office regarding the alleged disappearance of eight members of their family by agents of the Federal Police on 19 June 2011. On 27 September 2011, the Working Group had transmitted those eight cases under its urgent action procedure (see par. 396).

374. The Working Group would also like to recall article 7 of the Declaration, which states that “No circumstances whatsoever, whether a threat of war, a state of war, internal political instability or any other public emergency, may be invoked to justify enforced disappearances”.

375. The Working Group would also like to remind the Government of its obligations under the Declaration towards the families of the disappeared and in particular of article 13.3 according to which States must take steps to ensure that persons involved in investigations of cases of enforced disappearance, including the complainant, counsel, witnesses and those conducting the investigation, are protected against ill-treatment, intimidation or reprisal.

382. The seventh case concerned Mr. Hicham El Hachimi, who was allegedly abducted from his home, located in Al Mohammadia, by police agents in civilian clothing on 30 November 2010, and then taken to an unknown destination.

Standard procedure

383. The Working Group transmitted three newly-reported cases to the Government.

Prompt intervention

387. On 31 May 2011, the Working Group, together with four other Special Procedures mechanisms, transmitted a prompt intervention letter to the Government regarding the alleged use of force by the police against peaceful demonstrators, including during a demonstration held on 15 May 2011, to denounce the existence of a secret place of detention in Temara.

388. On 29 July 2011, the Government replied to this communication and reported that there have been more than 717 protests and only 77 have been forbidden by the competent authorities.

389. Concerning the allegations of ill-treatment during the demonstration in front of the Direction Générale de la Sureveillance du Territoire (DGST), the Government noted that this demonstration was not permitted on the basis of a notification to the organisers in conformity with the legislation in force (article 17 of the Code of Public Liberties and 20 of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights - ICCPR).

390. The Government highlighted that, following the instructions by the judiciary and the Government, the alleged place of detention was visited by the Attorney General to Rabat's Appeal Court on 18 May 2011, who affirmed not having verified the existence of any place that could be considered a secret place of detention or aimed at immoral or illegal practices. The Government further indicated that, the same day, a Parliamentary Commission of representatives of political parties and of the National Human Rights Council, visited this place and concluded that no such detention place existed.

391. Regarding the legal basis for the use of force, the Government stressed that, although it values the use of dialogue, the employment of security forces is aimed at maintaining order and public security in situations when demonstrators carry out uncivilised acts. Therefore, the intervention of public forces was dictated by the obligation of the application of the law, the preservation of public order and the protection of common property, in conformity with domestic laws and the ICCPR.

392. Finally, the Government stressed that the public forces acted with the supervision of the judiciary and in total respect of the law in force for the dispersion of demonstrations that constitute a violation of the general laws in force.

Information from the Government

431. The Government transmitted one communication to the Working Group dated 20 June 2011. In this communication, it replied to the annual reminder concerning outstanding cases transmitted by the Working Group on 20 April 2011. The Government reported that under article 33 (s) of the Interim Constitution of Nepal of 2007, the responsibility of the State includes the constitution of a High-Level Truth and Reconciliation Commission to investigate the facts and about those persons involved in serious violations of human rights and crimes against humanity committed during the course of the conflict. Similarly, article 33 (q) stipulates the provision of relief of the families of the victims on the basis of the report of the Investigation Commission constituted to investigate the cases of persons who were subjected to enforced disappearance during the conflict. Likewise, clause 5.2.5 of the Comprehensive Peace Accord concluded between the then Government and the Nepal Communist Party on 21 November 2006, states that both parts agree to constitute a High-Level Truth and Reconciliation Commission to investigate the truth about those who have seriously violated human rights and those who were involved in crimes against humanity in the course of the armed conflict and to create an environment of reconciliation in the society. The Government informed the Working Group that it has presented two bills in the Legislature Parliament for the formation of the said commissions which are the final stage of approval following discussions at the Legislative Committee of the Parliament. The two Commissions to be formed after the approval of these bills by the Parliament shall investigate into the 458 cases referred to by the Working Group and bring the truth to the surface about them.

432. The Government highlighted that the proposed commissions would facilitate the management of the conflict smoothly through, among other things, investigating actual facts on the grave violations of human rights during the armed conflict, finding the truth about those who disappeared or made disappeared, identifying perpetrators, collecting facts and evidences, making recommendations as to the actions to be taken against the guilty, and recommending relief to the family of those who are disappeared or made disappeared. The Government further indicated that it remains fully committed to implement the directions of the Supreme Court to make a separate law on disappeared persons and form a commission on disappeared persons to investigate into the matter. In this context, the Government indicated that the commissions would have a prominent role in the investigation and evaluation of the said 458 cases.

433. The Government informed the Working Group that the National Human Rights Commission has carried out the exhumations of the remains of five persons whose cases are outstanding with the Working Group and that their DNA tests are under way.

434. The Government also indicated that the 458 reported cases appear to have occurred during the ten year long conflict, which is a special kind of situation. In order to address such a situation, the Government indicated that the truth and reconciliation commission and the disappearance commission are in the process of being formed. Hence, the Government reassured that the necessary steps would be taken following the proposed bills take legal form.

435. Finally, the Government reiterated that it is committed to investigating into the grave violations of human rights during the armed conflict, find the truth about the disappeared or forcefully disappeared persons, and respect, protect and promote the rights guaranteed by national and international instruments with reference to the disappeared persons.

Urgent Actions

441. The Working Group transmitted two cases to the Government under its urgent action procedure. The first concerned Mr. Muzaffar Bhutto, who was allegedly abducted by State intelligence agents in civilian clothes escorted by police forces in Hyderabad City, Sindh province, on 25 February 2011. The second concerned Mr. Al Sharkawy Abdullah Mohammed Abdelrahim, a university student who was last seen in the Hostel of the AIR University, located at F/8 Markaz, Islamabad, before allegedly being abducted by Pakistani Security Forces on 25 May 2011. The Government acknowledged receipt of these two cases.

Standard procedure

442. The Working Group transmitted three newly-reported cases to the Government. The first case concerned Mr. Mir Sohrab Khan Marri, who was allegedly abducted by Pakistani State Agents from the Hotel Syed Mohammad Agha, located in Quetta, Province of Balochistan, on 8 November 2009. The second case concerned Mr. Ali Asghar Ali Asghar Bangulzai, who was allegedly arrested in front of the Government Boys Degree College, located in Quetta, Province of Balochistan, by Pakistani Intelligence agents in plain clothes on 18 October 2001. The third case concerned Mr. Khan Mohammad Marri, who was allegedly abducted by plain-clothed Inter-Services Intelligence Agency officials and local police in Metroville West N°. 1 on 7 November 2010.

<sup>h</sup> One of the urgent actions had been transmitted as a case in the past and it remained outstanding. Therefore, the Working Group decided, at its 94th session, to merge the two cases as they both referred to the same person.

Urgent Appeals

443. The Working Group transmitted two communications under its urgent appeals procedure to the Government. The first communication was sent on 30 December 2010, together with two other Special Procedures mechanisms, and concerned Messrs. Siddique Eido and Yousaf Baloch, who were allegedly abducted in Pasni by men in civilian clothes and others wearing the uniform of the Federal Paramilitary Force of Pakistan Frontier Constabulary on 21 December 2010. The second was sent on 5 May 2011, together with three other Special Procedures mechanisms, and concerned Messrs. Riaz Kakepoto, Shah Nawaz Bhutto, Ali Nawab Mehar, and Jam Bhutto, members of Jeay Sindh Mutehda Mahaz, a Sindhi speaking nationalist group based in Pakistan, who were allegedly arrested and taken to an unknown destination by Pakistani security forces in plain clothes on 11 April 2011. The Government acknowledged receipt of these two communications.

Summary of the general allegation

444. Information was submitted by sources concerning obstacles encountered in the implementation of the Declaration on the Protection of All Persons from Enforced Disappearance in Pakistan. This information was transmitted to the Government on 9 September 2011, after the Working Group's ninety-fourth session.

445. The source informed that many activists, teachers, journalists, and lawyers disappeared in Balochistan, Pakistan. The disappearances were attributed to the security forces of the Government of Pakistan, in particular to the frontier corps and intelligence agencies. It was alleged that these security forces were often accompanied by men in plain clothes. It was alleged that, since October 2010, every month saw an increase in the number of cases of alleged disappearances and that these acts were carried out with impunity.

446. The sources also indicated that these human rights abuses created a climate of fear for the families of the disappeared and that they were inhibited to speak out in fear that security agents would kill their loved ones or abduct other family members in reprisal. It was alleged that the Government of Pakistan was failing to meet its obligation under international law, as reflected in the Declaration on the Protection of all Persons from Enforced Disappearance, to take effective measures to prevent and end acts of enforced disappearance, to ensure that those responsible for those violations were brought to justice and that surviving victims and families were provided with reparations in accordance with international standards.

447. It was alleged that the Judicial Commission, created by the Government of Pakistan in March 2010 to investigate cases of enforced disappearances across Pakistan, including Balochistan, had a narrow mandate and was failing to record statements of released individuals to gain information about the circumstances of their disappearances and to use this information to bring perpetrators to justice. The Commission was also criticised for its failure to investigate the role of the intelligence agencies, the main organs accused of involvement in acts of enforced disappearances.

448. It was reported that the Commission had been able to trace 134 missing persons, of whom 23 detainees had so far been released. However, the list of traced and released persons was not publicly available and the names of the missing persons on the list were not known in Balochistan. In addition, the list of traced individuals did not contain the names of those who disappeared during the Musharraf era, or at least governmental agencies had not admitted that those individuals were in custody.

Reply from the Government

449. On 4 November 2011, the Government replied to the general allegation. It stated that the allegations made were baseless, general in nature and unsubstantiated and reiterated the Government's commitment to promote and protect human rights of all citizens, including those who have reportedly disappeared.

450. The Government noted that a Commission of Inquiry on Enforced Disappearances, which registers all cases received from any quarter alleging enforced disappearance, was constituted in May 2010 and another one in March 2011 as the tenure of the first commission expired in December 2010. It further noted that cases of disappearance could be registered, through four different fora: the Human Rights Cell of the Supreme Court of Pakistan; the Commission of Inquiry on Enforced Disappearances; the National Crisis Management Cell of the Ministry of Interior; and the Special Desk at Home and Tribal Affairs Department. In addition, the Government noted that it is considering paying some financial assistance to families of the missing persons, purely on humanitarian grounds.

451. The Government also noted that there are no political prisoners in Pakistan of any political party, including those based in Balochistan and Sindh.

452. The Government further reiterated that its law enforcement and intelligence agencies were fully cognizant of the human rights issue of enforced disappearances and recalled that efforts were being undertaken at the highest level to address the problem.

Information from the Government

453. The Government transmitted six communications to the Working Group.

454. In the first communication, dated 31 December 2010, the Government replied to the urgent appeal transmitted on 9 November 2010, concerning Mr. Imran Jokhio, aged 17, who was allegedly abducted by police officials on 20 May 2010, when riding his three-wheeler auto rickshaw on the Mafi Faqir bridge at the Rohri canal (see report A/HRC/16/48, para. 382). The Government reported that the kidnapping of Mr. Jokhio was registered on 4 June 2010, at the Phull Police Station and that, after the registration of a First Information Report, two police constables were arrested and the case handed to the Investigation Branch for further investigation. It also stated that a team was constituted for the recovery of Mr. Jokhio and the arrest of the remaining accused. Thereafter, the relatives of Mr. Jokhio filed a petition with the Honourable Court of Sindh Bench at Sukkur which is under judicial trial. The Honourable Court has ordered the Superintendent of Police Investigation to constitute a team for the interrogation of the arrested police constables and for the recovery of Mr. Jokhio.

455. In the second communication, dated 8 February 2011, the Government provided information on eight outstanding cases. Based on this information, the Working Group decided, at its ninety-third session, to apply the six-month rule to these cases.

456. In the third communication, dated 10 June 2011, the Government provided information on 16 outstanding cases. Based on this information, the Working Group decided, at its ninety-fourth session, to apply the six-month rule to 13 cases. With regard to the remaining three cases, the six-month rule had been applied earlier to one of them and the other two were clarified following the source's confirmation of the information provided by the Government.

457. In the fourth communication, dated 2 August 2011, the Government provided information on one outstanding case. Based on this information, the Working Group decided, at its ninety-fifth session, to apply the six-month rule to the case.

458. In the fifth communication, dated 4 August 2011, the Government provided information on one outstanding case, which was considered insufficient to lead to its clarification.

Observations

The Working Group recalls article 2.1 of the Declaration which states that “No State shall practise, permit or tolerate enforced disappearances”, as well as article 3, which provides that “Each State shall take effective legislative, administrative, judicial or other measures to prevent and terminate acts of enforced disappearance in any territory under its jurisdiction.”

Prompt intervention

494. On 23 August 2011, the Working Group, together with three other Special Procedures mechanisms, sent a prompt intervention letter to the Government regarding alleged threats against individuals, including relatives, related to the case of Mr. Pattani Razeek, a human rights defender who was reportedly disappeared and killed.

Summary of the general allegation

495. Information was submitted by sources concerning obstacles encountered in the implementation of the Declaration on the Protection of All Persons from Enforced Disappearance in Sri Lanka during the last phase of the war against the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam from 2006 until 2009. This information was transmitted to the Government on 4 May 2011, after the Working Group's ninety-third session.

496. The source informed the Working Group about serious allegations of human rights violations in the Northern Province of Sri Lanka, in particular the Mannar district. Allegations were that enforced or involuntary disappearances, as well as other serious human rights violations, including arbitrary detentions, torture, extrajudicial killings, rapes and other forms of sexual violence, discrimination based on religion or belief and ethnic origin, as well as serious limitations to the exercise of other civil and political and economic, social and cultural rights, occurred.

497. According to sources, more than 500 persons disappeared in the Jaffna district between January and August 2007. Similarly, information was received that approximately 100 people disappeared in the Mannar district between 2008 and 2009.

498. Allegations were made about the absence of impartial investigations, prosecution, trial and sentence of alleged perpetrators of human rights violations. According to the sources, existing mechanisms such as police and existing human rights commissions, among others, have proved unable to assist the families of the victims of enforced or involuntary disappearances in their search for their beloved ones. It was alleged that families did not have access to relevant information and that there was no centralised list of detainees in each detention centre to which relatives could refer.

499. Sources also reported that there was a lack of substantial progress on the several reconciliation initiatives that were set, which have allegedly failed to provide the victims with answers on the fate and whereabouts of the disappeared and to provide accountability of alleged perpetrators of human rights violations; among other obligations incumbent upon States where enforced or involuntary disappearances have occurred. In this connection, it was alleged that few had been prosecuted, subjected to trial and sentenced, despite the almost three years that have elapsed between the end of the war against the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam.

500. Sources alleged that there was a lack of transparency in the practice of various commissions of inquiry, the lack of public character of their reports and the denial of their access to the victims, families and civil society.

501. No response was received from the Government regarding this general allegation.

Information from the Government

502. On 7 July and 2 September 2009, the Government submitted two communications in which it provided two lists with a total of 459 possible duplicate cases. During its eighty-ninth session, the Working Group reviewed 171 cases and concluded that they were duplicates and therefore they were deleted from its records. During its ninety-fifth session, the Working Group continued reviewing these cases and concluded that 41 were also duplicates and decided to also delete them from its records. For the remaining cases, the Working Group continues to check the original submissions.

503. No communications concerning outstanding cases were received during the reporting period.

Request for a visit

504. On 16 October 2006, the Working Group requested the Government of Sri Lanka to extend an invitation to undertake a mission to the country. The Government replied that it would not be possible to schedule a visit during the proposed dates, and that the interest of the Working Group would be given due consideration. Reminder letters were sent on 20 July 2009, 16 August 2010 and 20 July 2011.

Total cases transmitted, clarified and outstanding

505. Since its establishment, the Working Group has transmitted 12,460 cases to the Government; of those, 40 cases have been clarified on the basis of information provided by the source, 6,535 cases have been clarified on the basis of information provided by the Government, 214 cases were found to be duplications and were therefore deleted, and 5,671 remain outstanding.

Observations

506. The Working Group has been able to deal with most of the backlog concerning Sri Lanka; however, a considerable number of cases have been received during the reporting period but have not yet been dealt with because of a lack of resources. The Working Group hopes to deal with these cases as soon as possible.

507. The Working Group reminds the Government of its obligations under the Declaration towards the families of the disappeared.

508. The Working Group regrets that no response has been received to the general allegation transmitted on 4 May 2011.

Information from the Government

512. On 18 May 2010, the Government transmitted a communication concerning two outstanding cases which could not be translated in time for inclusion in the 2010 annual report (A/HRC/16/48). The information provided was considered insufficient to lead to their clarification.

<sup>k</sup> Following the independence of South Sudan on 9 July 2011, and its admission as a United Nations Member State on 14 July 2011, the Working Group has started reviewing the cases recorded under Sudan to determine whether these should be transferred to the records of South Sudan in accordance to the Working Group's working methods.

513. During the reporting period, the Government transmitted one communication to the Working Group dated 16 August 2011, in which it provided its comments on United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights thirteenth periodic report on the situation of human rights in the Sudan, titled “Preliminary report on violations of international human rights and humanitarian law in Southern Kordofan from 5 to 30 June 2011”. The Government indicated that the comments provided constituted as well a response to the content of the press statement issued on 22 July 2011 (see par. 564). Concerning enforced disappearances, the Government indicated that the Sudanese Armed Forces cannot be responsible for the disappearances of any person during the incidents and that they never targeted Christians or their churches.

Information from sources

514. Sources provided information on one outstanding case.

Press release

515. On 22 July 2011, the Working Group, jointly with two other Special Procedures mechanisms, issued a press release expressing alarm over reports of atrocities in Southern Kordofan region of Sudan, including killings, arbitrary arrests and detentions, and enforced disappearances perpetrated against Nubans and other dark-skinned people.<sup>1</sup>

Request for a visit

516. A request for a visit was sent to the Government of the Sudan on 20 December 2005. On 3 April 2008, 20 July 2009, 16 August 2010 and 18 August 2011, the Working Group reiterated its interest to undertake the mission. However, no reply has yet been received.

Total cases transmitted, clarified and outstanding

517. Since its establishment, the Working Group has transmitted 383 cases to the Government; of those, four cases have been clarified on the basis of information provided by the source, 205 cases have been clarified on the basis of information provided by the Government, and 174 remain outstanding.

Observations

518. The Working Group is concerned by the fact that, during the reporting period, it transmitted two urgent appeals, one concerning nine individuals and the other concerning three individuals. The Working Group recalls article 2.1 of the Declaration which states that “No State shall practise, permit or tolerate enforced disappearances”, as well as article 3, which provides that “Each State shall take effective legislative, administrative, judicial or other measures to prevent and terminate acts of enforced disappearance in any territory under its jurisdiction.”

Urgent Appeals

542. The Working Group transmitted seven urgent appeals to the Government concerning the situation in the Syrian Arab Republic in relation to demonstrations that took place across the country since March 2011.

543. The first one was transmitted on 30 March 2011, jointly with five other special procedures mechanisms, concerning a number of protesters, some of whom were under the age of 18 years old, who were allegedly arrested in the cities and towns of Aleppo, Banias, Dera'a, Douma, Hama, Homs, Latakia, Ma'aran Nu'man and Al-Malkyah between 8 and 23 March 2011, and whose fates and whereabouts remained unknown.

544. On 6 July 2011, the Government replied to this urgent appeal. The Government emphasized that, since the beginning of the events in March 2011, the competent Syrian authorities have dealt with peaceful demonstrations by those whose demands and goals are reform and combating corruption in a civilized manner reflecting the nature and substance of the relationship between society and state, and have safeguarded those demonstrations until such time as they ended and all the participants had returned to their homes. However the Government also stressed that armed terrorist gangs are appearing on the ground, attacking, terrorizing and killing peaceful demonstrators in order to discredit the public authorities of Syria by portraying them as undertaking bloody operations to suppress the demonstrators. The Government also reported that all those who were detained for perpetrating unlawful acts have been transferred to the judicial authorities in accordance with the provisions of the Syrian Code of Criminal Procedure and in complete conformity with the legislation promulgated in terms of lifting the state of emergency, so that there is no longer any scope in Syria for unofficial detention: suspects are referred to the competent public prosecutor within 24 hours and come under the protection and guardianship of the Syrian judiciary. In most of the cases referred to the courts, the suspects have been released immediately. As for those who have committed acts of sabotage, arson or murder, the competent judicial authorities have prosecuted them in accordance with the provisions of the law, and those who are proven innocent are declared not guilty by judicial judgment, while those whom the courts find have committed such acts are punished in accordance with the provisions of the Syrian Criminal Code. In addition, the Government submitted the principles the measures the Syrian Government has taken and the legislation it has promulgated recently in the framework of promoting and protecting human rights.

545. The second one was transmitted on 26 May 2011, jointly with four other special procedures mechanisms, concerning Messrs. Wael Al-Hamada, who was allegedly arrested at his workplace in Damascus on 11 May 2011; Abdel Rahman Al-Hamada, who was allegedly arrested by agents from the intelligence services on 30 April 2011; Mohammed Hasan al-Labwani, who was allegedly arrested at his home on 2 May 2011, in al-Zabadani, near Damascus; Hassan Abd al-Adhim, who was allegedly arrested at his office in Damascus by State Security agents on 28 April 2011; Omar Qashaash, who was allegedly arrested in Aleppo on 30 April 2011; and Yasser Al-Khayyat, who was allegedly taken to a security detention centre on 11 May 2011.

546. The third one was transmitted on 17 June 2011, jointly with six other special procedures mechanisms, concerning Messrs. George Sabra, Ahmed Maetouk, Abdulrahman Al-Hamada and Fayez Sarah, who were allegedly arrested by security forces between 9 April and 2 May 2011.

547. The fourth one was transmitted on 3 August 2011, jointly with three other special procedures mechanisms, concerning Messrs. Bashar, Mohamed and Ghassan Al Sahyoni, who were allegedly arrested at their home in Mafrak Al Kal'a, Banias, and then taken to an unknown destination by uniformed agents belonging to the Military Intelligence Service, on 12 May 2011.

548. The fifth one was transmitted on 10 August 2011, jointly with five other special procedures mechanisms, concerning Mr. Al Tahhan, who was allegedly arrested at his home, located in Aleppo, by two agents of the Aleppo Air Intelligence Branch in civilian clothing, on 19 July 2011.

549. The sixth one was transmitted on 16 August 2011, jointly with one other special procedures mechanism, concerning Mr. Abdel Karim Rihaoui, who was allegedly arrested on 11 August 2011, by Air Intelligence officials at the Havana Cafe, located in Damascus, where he was meeting with a journalist.

550. On 24 August 2011, sources reported that Mr. Rihaoui had been released.

551. The seventh one was transmitted on 30 August 2011, jointly with five other special procedures mechanisms, concerning Messrs. Walid Al-Bunni and his two sons, Mu'ayad Al Bunni and Iyad Al Bunni, who were allegedly arrested by members of the Intelligence Agency at their home in Al Tal, Damascus, on 8 August 2011. It was reported that Iyad was released the same day. However, the fate and whereabouts of Mr. Al Bunni and his son Mu'ayad remained unknown at the time of the urgent appeal.

Summary of the general allegations

552. Information was submitted by sources concerning obstacles encountered in the implementation of the Declaration on the Protection of all Persons from Enforced Disappearance. This information was transmitted to the Government through two general allegations, on 9 September 2011, after the Working Group's ninety-fourth session.

553. On the first general allegation, sources reported that there have been systematic human rights violations committed by the Syrian authorities against its population, including enforced disappearances. It was alleged that possibly thousands of people have disappeared. It was further alleged that those arrested were being detained by the security services, rather than by the judicial police who normally have the jurisdiction to do so. It was reported that these arrests were taking place without arrest warrants, and those detained were subjected to a period of enforced disappearance as their families were not able to obtain information regarding the place of detention or fate. It was also alleged that many of those subject to being disappeared are subject to ill-treatment and were often tortured.

554. On the second general allegation, sources reported that a mass grave containing the remains of at least 13 bodies including women and children (possibly including members of the Abazied and al-Mahmaed families), was discovered on 16 May 2011 near Daraa in an area called Talit Mohammed Assarie. It was alleged that these families lived together in a house that was targeted by the army during the attack on Daraa at the beginning of May and that many civilians were killed by the military when the military attacked the city's old quarter. It was further alleged that the authorities cordoned off the area after the bodies were discovered and that the authorities have prevented those who discovered the bodies from identifying them. It was also alleged that during the siege of Daraa security personnel prevented residents from leaving their homes and from removing dead bodies from the streets. It was alleged that the bodies on the streets disappeared. Finally, sources urged that the Syrian authorities stop further killings of civilians; uncover mass graves and respect the right of families to know the fate of their relatives.

555. No response was received from the Government during the reporting period regarding these two general allegations.

Information from the Government

556. The Government transmitted four communications to the Working Group.

557. In the first and third communications, dated 1 December 2010 and 31 May 2011, the Government provided information on one outstanding case. Based on the information provided on 31 May 2011, the Working Group decided, at its ninety-fourth session, to apply the six-month rule to that case.

558. In the second communication, dated 9 March 2011, the Government provided information concerning 16 outstanding cases. Based on this information, the Working Group decided to apply, at its ninety-third session, the 6-month rule to one case. However, this information was contested by the source of the case and therefore the Working Group decided, at its ninety-fourth session, to suspend the application of the 6-month rule. Concerning the remaining cases, the Government stressed that the relevant sources had not provided information for many years and therefore requested the Working Group to apply its working methods.

559. In the fourth communication, dated 6 July 2011, the Government replied to the urgent appeal dated 30 March 2011.

560. On 30 March 2010, the Government of Lebanon provided information on a case registered under the Syrian Arab Republic which had already been clarified by the source.

Observations

567. The Working Group is gravely concerned about the number of allegations of enforced disappearances received during the reporting period, as reflected in 11 urgent actions, seven urgent appeals and two general allegations, one of which makes reference to reports that thousands of individuals may have disappeared.

568. The Working Group would like to recall article 2 of the Declaration, which states that “No State shall practise, permit or tolerate enforced”; article 3, which states that “Each State shall take effective legislative, administrative, judicial or other measures to prevent and terminate acts of enforced disappearance in any territory under its jurisdiction”; and article 7, which states that “No circumstances whatsoever, whether a threat of war, a state of war, internal political instability or any other public emergency, may be invoked to justify enforced disappearances”.

569. In light of the above, the Working Group would like to stress its interest in undertaking a visit to the country.

Urgent actions

578. The Working Group sent two cases under its urgent action procedure to the Government. They concerned Messrs. Ibroheng Karhong and Dulhami Marae, who allegedly disappeared in Bannangsta District, Yala Province, on 30 April 2011. According to the source, they were reportedly last seen entering the Border Patrol Police camp at Ban Santi 1.

Prompt interventions

579. On 16 February 2011, the Working Group jointly with another special procedure mechanism, transmitted a prompt intervention letter to the Government concerning the alleged threats received by Ms. Angkhana Neelaphaijit, President of the Justice and Peace Commission and wife of Mr. Somchai Neelaphaijit, a human rights lawyer who disappeared in 2004. According to the source, the threats coincide with the on-going legal procedures concerning the case of Mr. Neelaphaijit.

580. On 5 July 2011, the Government replied to the prompt intervention letter. It reported that it had always provided Ms. Neelaphaijit with protection in response to her safety concerns. It further reported that the concerns related to her safety, which were raised earlier by relevant special procedures mechanisms, were promptly and duly investigated, as previously informed. The Government stated that, although the threats may coincide with on-going legal proceedings involving Ms. Neelaphaijit's husband and with her role as a human rights defender, it would be presumptuous to draw any conclusion at this stage, especially before the authorities concerned have completed all relevant investigations.

Information from the Government

581. The Government transmitted three communications to the Working Group.

582. In the first communication, dated 10 February 2011, the Government provided information on six outstanding cases and requested clarifications from the Working Group with regard to the 2010 Annual Report. Concerning one outstanding case, the Government brought to the Working Group's attention that, notwithstanding that in its 2009 Annual Report (A/HRC/13/31, par. 552) it had been indicated that the six-month rule had been applied to this case, the said case had not yet been clarified. The Working Group replied that, due to a technical error, the letter informing the source about the implementation of the six-month rule had not been sent. Therefore the six-month rule started to apply after the Working Group's ninety-third session. In addition, based on the information provided, the Working Group decided to apply the six-month rule to two other cases. Regarding the remaining three cases, the information provided was considered insufficient to lead to their clarification.

583. In the second communication, dated 5 July 2011, the Government replied to the prompt intervention letter sent on 16 February 2011.

584. In the third communication, dated 17 October 2011, the Government requested clarifications concerning the suspension of the six-month rule with regard to a case. In addition, it provided information to the Working Group concerning the remedies provided to 28 persons who appear on the records of the Working Group, and noted that the Government has taken all cases of alleged disappearances very seriously, especially in addressing the plights of the families whose members had allegedly disappeared, thereby providing them with appropriate remedies. Furthermore, the Government requested the assistance of the Working Group in obtaining more specific information on the outstanding cases. It also asked the Working Group whether the six-month rule could be applied to seven cases for which the Thai Court had ruled to be disappearances. Finally, it replied to the request for a visit, as well as informed the Working Group that the Cabinet of the Royal Thai Government had approved the signing the Convention and its ratification is being finalized.

Information from sources

585. Sources provided information on five outstanding cases. Regarding one case, the source confirmed the information provided by the Government and, consequently, the case was clarified. In addition, the sources contested the information provided by the Government with regard to two cases to which the six-month rule had been applied. Consequently, the Working Group decided, at its ninety-fourth session, to suspend the application of the six-month rule to these two cases.

Clarification

586. Following the information provided by the Government, which was later confirmed by the source, the Working Group decided to clarify one case.

Request for a visit

587. On 30 June 2011, the Working Group requested an invitation to undertake a mission to the country. On 17 October 2011, the Government of Thailand replied that given the high number of requests received, a further communication would be conveyed to the Working Group when an agreeable time can be arranged.

Total cases transmitted, clarified and outstanding

588. Since its establishment, the Working Group has transmitted 62 cases to the Government; of those, two cases have been clarified on the basis of information provided by the Government, two cases have been discontinued, three cases were found to be duplications and were therefore deleted, and 55 remain outstanding.

Observations

589. The Working Group recalls article 13.3 of the Declaration according to which States must take steps to ensure that persons involved in investigations of cases of enforced disappearance, including the complainant, counsel, witnesses and those conducting the investigation, are protected against ill-treatment, intimidation or reprisal.

Observations

642. The Working Group regrets that no response was received from the Government to its general allegation on the escalating phenomenon of enforced or involuntary disappearances of political party members and human rights defenders (A/HRC/13/31, par. 631-6), notwithstanding a reminder sent on 26 August 2011.

Annex II

Revised methods of work of the Working Group on Enforced or Involuntary Disappearances

Adopted on 11 November 2011. Applicable as from 1 January 2012.

A. The mandate

Legal basis for the mandate

1. The Working Group on Enforced or Involuntary Disappearances' methods of work are based on its mandate as stipulated originally in Commission on Human Rights resolution 20 (XXXVI) and as developed by the Commission and its successor the Human Rights Council in numerous further resolutions. The parameters of its work are laid down in the Charter of the United Nations, the International Bill of Human Rights, Economic and Social Council resolution 1235 (XLI) and the Declaration on the Protection of All Persons from Enforced or Involuntary Disappearance, adopted by the General Assembly in its resolution 47/133 of 18 December 1992 (hereinafter referred to as "the Declaration").

Humanitarian mandate

2. One of the mandates of the Working Group is aimed at assisting families in determining the fate and whereabouts of their disappeared relatives who are placed outside the protection of the law. To this end, the Working Group endeavours to establish a channel of communication between the families and the Governments concerned, with a view to ensuring that sufficiently documented and clearly identified individual cases which families, directly or indirectly, have brought to the Working Group's attention are investigated with a view to clarifying the fate or whereabouts of the disappeared persons. In transmitting cases of disappearance, the Working Group deals exclusively with Governments, basing itself on the principle that Governments must assume responsibility for any violation of human rights on their territory.

Monitoring mandate

3. In addition, the Working Group has been entrusted to monitor States' compliance with their obligations deriving from the Declaration on the Protection of All Persons from Enforced Disappearance and of existing international rules and to provide to Governments with assistance in their implementation

4. The Working Group reminds the Governments of their obligations not only in the context of clarifying individual cases but also that of taking action of a more general nature. It draws the attention of Governments and non-governmental organizations to general or specific aspects of the Declaration, it recommends ways of overcoming obstacles to the realization of the Declaration, it discusses with representatives of Governments and non-governmental organizations how to solve specific problems in the light of the Declaration, it assists Governments by carrying out on-the-spot visits, organizing seminars and providing similar advisory services. The Working Group also makes observations on the implementation of the Declaration when the concerned Government has not fulfilled its obligations related to the rights to truth, justice and reparation. The Working Group adopts general comments whenever it considers that a provision of the Declaration requires further clarification or interpretation.

Definition of enforced disappearance

5. As defined in the preamble of the Declaration, enforced disappearances occur when persons are arrested, detained or abducted against their will or otherwise deprived of their liberty by officials of different branches or levels of Government or by organized groups or private individuals acting on behalf of, or with the support, direct or indirect, consent or acquiescence of the Government, followed by a refusal to disclose the fate or whereabouts of the persons concerned or a refusal to acknowledge the deprivation of their liberty, which places such persons outside the protection of the law.

Definition of Perpetrators

6. The Working Group operates for purposes of its work on the basis that, in accordance with the definition contained in the Preamble of the Declaration, enforced disappearances are only considered as such when the act in question is perpetrated by State actors or by private individuals or organized groups (e.g. paramilitary groups) acting on behalf of, or with the support, direct or indirect, consent or acquiescence of the Government. Based on the above, the Working Group does not admit cases when they are attributed to persons or groups not acting on behalf of, or with the support, direct or indirect, consent or acquiescence of the Government, such as terrorist or insurgent movements fighting the Government in its own territory.

B. Handling of cases*Urgent procedures

7. Cases of enforced disappearances that occurred within the three months preceding receipt of the report by the Working Group are transmitted to the Minister for Foreign Affairs of the country concerned by the most direct and rapid means. Their transmission can be authorized by the Chair-Rapporteur on the basis of a specific delegation of power given to him by the Working Group. Cases which occurred prior to the three month limit, but not more than one year before the date of their receipt by the Secretariat, provided that they had some connection with a case which occurred within the three-month period, can be transmitted between sessions by letter, upon authorization by the Chair-Rapporteur. The Working Group notifies sources that an urgent action has been sent to the concerned Government, thus helping it to enter into communication with the authorities about the specific case.

Standard procedures

8. Cases of enforced disappearances that are reported after three months are placed before the Working Group for detailed examination during its sessions. Those which fulfil the requirements outlined above are transmitted, upon the Working Group's specific authorization, to the Governments concerned with the request that they carry out investigations in order to clarify the fate or whereabouts of the disappeared person, and inform the Working Group of the results. These cases are communicated by letter from the Working Group's Chair-Rapporteur to the Government concerned through the Permanent Representative to the United Nations Office at Geneva.

9. Any substantive additional information which the sources submit on an outstanding case is placed before the Working Group and, following its approval, transmitted to the Government concerned.

Admissibility of cases of enforced or involuntary disappearances

10. Reports of disappearances are considered admissible by the Working Group when they originate from the family or friends of the disappeared person. Such reports may, however, be channelled to the Working Group through representatives of the family, Governments, intergovernmental organizations, non-governmental organizations and other reliable sources. They must be submitted in writing with a clear indication of the identity of the sender; if the source is other than a family member, it must have direct consent of the family to submit the case on its behalf, and it must also be in a position to follow up with the relatives of the disappeared person concerning his or her fate.

Elements for admissibility

11. In order to enable Governments to carry out meaningful investigations, the Working Group provides them with information containing at least a minimum of basic data. In addition, the Working Group constantly urges the senders of reports to furnish as many details as possible concerning the identity of the disappeared person and the circumstances of the disappearance. The Working Group requires the following minimum elements:

- (a) Full name of the disappeared person and, if possible, age, gender, nationality, and occupation or profession;
- (b) Date of disappearance, i.e. day, month and year of arrest or abduction, or day, month and year when the disappeared person was last seen. When the disappeared person was last seen in a detention centre, an approximate indication is sufficient (for example, March or spring 1990);
- (c) Place of arrest or abduction, or where the disappeared person was last seen (indication of town or village, at least);
- (d) Parties, acting on behalf of, or with the support, direct or indirect, consent or acquiescence of the Government, presumed to have carried out the arrest or abduction or to be holding the disappeared person in unacknowledged detention;
- (e) Steps taken by the family to determine the fate or whereabouts of the disappeared person, or at least an indication that efforts to resort to domestic remedies were frustrated or have otherwise been inconclusive.
- (f) A case should be submitted to the Working Group by a reliable source, which, if other than a family member, must indicate whether the reported victim's family has given their direct consent that this case be submitted to the Working Group on their behalf.

12. If a case is not admitted, the Working Group sends a response to the source indicating that the information received did not fulfil the established requirements, in order to permit the source to provide all relevant information.

Situations of vulnerability

13. With respect to reported cases of disappearances, the Working Group highlights the condition of people in situations of vulnerability, including women, children, the elderly, persons with disabilities, and other vulnerable groups.

Pregnancy

14. In the case of the disappearance of a pregnant woman, the child presumed to have been born during the mother's captivity should be mentioned in the description of the case of the mother. The child would be treated as a separate case when witnesses reported that the mother had actually given birth to a child during detention.

Cases concerning two or more countries

15. Reports on a disappearance indicating that officials from one country are directly responsible for or involved in a disappearance in another country, or in cases where officials from more than one country were directly responsible for or involved in the disappearance would be communicated to all Governments concerned. However, the case would only be counted in the statistics of the country in which the person was reportedly arrested, detained, abducted or last seen. The same principles are applied with respect to the transmission of all communications. In exceptional circumstances, and if the humanitarian mandate of the Working Group so requires, cases may be counted in the statistics of a different country. However, the State upon whose territory the disappearance occurred will be copied on all communications so that it could also play a role, where possible, to gather all available information which could lead to the clarification of the cases.

Outstanding cases

16. The Working Group considers cases as outstanding for as long as they have not been clarified, closed or discontinued in accordance with the present methods of work. This principle is not affected by changes of Government in a given country nor in the event of State succession.

Reminders

17. The Working Group reminds every Government concerned once a year of the cases which have not yet been clarified and three times a year of all urgent action cases transmitted since the previous session. On request, the Working Group provides to the Government concerned or the source, to the extent possible, updated information on specific cases.

Government replies

18. All replies received from Governments concerning reports of disappearances are examined by the Working Group and summarized in the Working Group's annual report to the Human Rights Council. Any information given on specific cases is forwarded to the sources of those reports, who are invited to make observations thereon or to provide additional details on the cases.

The six-month rule

19. Any reply of the Government containing detailed information on the fate or whereabouts of the disappeared person is transmitted to the source. If the source does not respond within six months of the date on which the Government's reply was communicated to it, or if it contests the Government's information on grounds which are considered unreasonable by the Working Group, the case is considered clarified and is accordingly listed under the heading "Cases clarified by the Government's response" in the statistical summary of the annual report. If the source contests the Government's information on reasonable grounds, the Government is so informed and invited to comment.

Clarification

20. Clarification occurs when the fate or whereabouts of the disappeared persons are clearly established and detailed information is transmitted as a result of an investigation by the Government, inquiries by non-governmental organisations, fact-finding missions by the Working Group or by human rights personnel from the United Nations or from any other international organization operating in the field, or by the search of the family, irrespective of whether the person is alive or dead. In these circumstances the six-month rule, provided in article 19, applies.

Closed cases

21. The Working Group may decide stop pursuing a case when the competent authority specified in the relevant national law issues a declaration of absence as a result of enforced disappearance or, alternatively, a declaration of presumption of death, and the relatives or other interested parties have manifested, freely and indisputably, their desire not to pursue the case any further. These conditions should at all times respect the right to integral reparation.

Discontinuation of cases

22. In exceptional circumstances, the Working Group may decide to discontinue the consideration of cases where the families have manifested, freely and indisputably, their desire not to pursue the case any further, or when the source is no longer in existence or is unable to follow up the case and steps taken by the Working Group to establish communication with other sources have proven unsuccessful.

Reopening of cases

23. If sources provide well-documented information that a case has been considered clarified, closed or discontinued erroneously, because the Government's reply referred to a different person, does not correspond to the reported situation or has not reached the source within the six-month period referred to above, the Working Group transmits the case to the Government anew, requesting it to comment. In such instances, the case in question is again listed among the outstanding cases and a specific explanation is given in the Working Group's report to the Human Rights Council, describing the above-mentioned errors or discrepancies.

C. Other protection mechanisms

Urgent appeals

24. When credible allegations are received that a person has been arrested, detained, abducted, or otherwise deprived of his liberty and has been enforcedly disappeared or is at risk of being disappeared, the Working Group will transmit those allegations to the Minister for Foreign Affairs of the Government concerned by the most direct and rapid means requesting said Government to carry out investigations to clarify the fate or whereabouts of the person(s) concerned and to inform the Working Group about the results. The transmission of urgent appeals is authorized by the Chair-Rapporteur on the basis of a specific delegation of power given to him by the Working Group.

25. Urgent appeals will be reflected in the annual report of the Working Group, but will not be counted in the statistics of the Government concerned. However, should the information contained therein be provided in accordance with the requirements listed under "Admissibility of cases of enforced or involuntary disappearances" and "Elements for admissibility", the urgent appeal will become a standard or urgent case as appropriate in which case the Government concerned will be informed by separate communication.

Prompt interventions

26. Cases of intimidation, persecution or reprisal against relatives of disappeared persons, witnesses to disappearances or their families, members of organizations of relatives and other non-governmental organizations, human rights defenders or individuals concerned with disappearances are transmitted to the pertinent Governments, with the appeal that they take steps to protect all the fundamental rights of the persons affected. Cases of that nature, which require prompt intervention, are transmitted directly to the Ministers for Foreign Affairs by the most direct and rapid means. To that end, the Working Group has authorized its Chair-Rapporteur to transmit such cases between sessions.

General allegations

27. The Working Group regularly transmits to the Governments concerned a summary of allegations received from relatives of disappeared persons and non-governmental organizations with regard to obstacles encountered in the implementation of the Declaration in their respective countries, inviting them to comment thereon if they so wish.

Cooperation with other mechanisms

28. If a case or allegation contains information relevant to other thematic mechanisms of the Human Rights Council, the information is transmitted to the mechanism concerned.

29. Where appropriate, the Working Group may join other mechanisms in the actions they take within the scope of their respective mandates.

D. Activities of the Working Group

Country missions

30. The Working Group carries out visits to countries on invitation, but also takes the initiative of approaching Governments with a view to carrying out visits to countries, when considered appropriate. Such visits are intended to enhance the dialogue between the authorities most directly concerned, the families or their representatives and the Working Group, and to assist in the clarification of the reported disappearances. The Working Group also undertakes visits to examine the practices carried out by Governments to clarify cases of enforced disappearances, as well as the programmes and measures adopted to implement the Declaration and to guarantee the rights of the victims, including the right to integral reparation. The Working Group reports to the Council on its country visits in an addendum to its annual report.

Follow-up

31. With regard to countries in which visits have been carried out, the Working Group periodically reminds the Governments concerned of the observations and recommendations formulated in the respective reports, requesting information on the consideration given to them, and the steps taken for their implementation or the constraints which might have prevented their implementation. The Working Group may also take the initiative to carry out follow-up visits.

Sessions

32. The Working Group meets three times a year to consider the information brought to its attention since its previous session. Its sessions are held in private. However, the Working Group works intersessionally and regularly meets with representatives of Governments, non-governmental organizations, family members and witnesses.

Reports

33. The Working Group reports annually to the Human Rights Council on the activities which it has carried out from the end of the Council's previous session up until the last day of the Working Group's third annual session. It informs the Council of its communications with Governments and non-governmental organizations, its meetings and missions. Reports on missions are contained as addenda to the main report. The Working Group reports on all cases of disappearance received by the Group during the year, on a country by country basis, and on the decision it has taken thereon. It provides the Council with a statistical summary for each country of cases transmitted to the Government, clarifications, and the status of the person concerned on the date of clarification. It includes graphs showing the development of disappearances in countries with more than 100 transmitted cases as of the date of the adoption by the Working Group of its annual report. The Working Group includes conclusions and recommendations in its report and makes observations on the situation of disappearances in individual countries. The Working Group further reports on the implementation of the Declaration and the obstacles encountered therein, and periodically reports on broader issues surrounding the phenomenon of enforced disappearance.

Participation of experts

34. When the information under consideration concerns a country to which one of the members of the Working Group is a national, that member does not participate in the discussion.

Titles

35. Titles are for reference only and should not be considered as part of the methods of work.
