Nahla Haidar, CEDAW member and Chair of the Working Group on the GENDER RELATED DIMENSIONS OF DISASTER RISK REDUCTION IN A CHANGING CLIMATE
The 2009 CEDAW Statement on Climate Change: “During its 44th session in 2009, the Committee stated, ‘All stakeholders should ensure that climate change and disaster risk reduction measures are gender responsive, sensitive to indigenous knowledge systems and respect human rights. Women’s right to participate at all levels of decision-making must be guaranteed in climate change policies and programs.”
Draft 1: Outline and Structure for the General Recommendation on the Gender-related dimensions of Disaster Risk Reduction in a Changing Climate

I. Introduction

II. Objective and scope

III. CEDAW Convention & other relevant international frameworks

IV. General principles of the CEDAW Convention applicable to disaster risk reduction in a Changing CLIMATE
   A. Equality and non-discrimination
   B. Participation and Empowerment
   C. Accountability and access to justice

V. Key Convention provisions that address disaster risk reduction in a changing climate
   A. Assessment and data collection
   B. Policy coherence
   C. Financing, cooperation and extraterritorial obligations
   D. Capacity Development and access to technology

VI. Thematic areas of concern
   A. Health
   B. Adequate standard of living
   C. Education and information
   D. Social and economic benefits
   E. Sustainable Urban Development
   F. Rural Settings
   G. Marriage and family life
   H. Violence against women
   I. Migration, displacement, and planned relocation

VII. Dissemination and reporting