

1. To fulfill its Charter, UN Members and System should support Indigenous Peoples' collective human rights to good governance, representative institutions, and multilateral organizations as we mitigate climate changes and impacts, including evolution and spread of infectious diseases.
 - a. Stop US aggression against Yamasi People by suspending US access to UN Bretton Woods Institutions (violating Art. 1) until US signs and implements the Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples.
 - b. Remedy colonial aggression with UN Member and System collaborating with Indigenous Peoples' multilateral organizations for truth and reconciliation processes (Art. 34) in the Caribbean to restore Indigenous Peoples' representative institutions.
 - c. Call for UN HRC Commissions of Inquiry responding to valuable Indigenous Peoples' complaints. Investigate and provide recommendations for expedited remedy those US acts not only continuing US refusal to recognize Indigenous Peoples' collective human rights (violating Art. 7, 40), but also coercing States and multilateral organizations to do the same.
 - d. Call UN System to implement the Declaration and reveal circumstances of misassignments of territorial title of an Indigenous People for a study on best practices for remedy of title misassignment to promote each Indigenous People's livelihood to manage our traditional trade systems for our own sustainability. Enable UN Member and System participation with Indigenous Peoples' multilateral organizations of representative institutions to resolve conflicting title claims as described in Articles 26-8.
2. Covid has taken Yamasi lives and capacity while increasing physical, sexual, structural, environmental violence against us.
 - a. Condition market access on human rights, ensuring that Indigenous Peoples' governance of our markets is respected. End market-based environmental mechanisms (violating Art. 4) until Declaration implementation has enabled access to justice and formalization of each Indigenous People's title to territories impacted by these mechanisms to reduce violence against Indigenous Peoples, including Yamasi People. US accelerated violent development during Covid pandemic with unregulated subsidies to Business, diminishing Yamasi People's access to food, shelter, health, and education. Yamasi members suffered or died from suspected Covid infection and deprivation because we do not have formal access to our own territories or to modern health options and because US unsustainable development has exterminated and weakened our medicines (violating Art. 24).
 - b. Incentivize consortia of Caribbean States to implement the Declaration (Art. 36) especially in context of ecosystem and biodiversity protection and restoration to seek balance with our Greatgrandmother Earth (Art. 21-2). Such consortia could protect Indigenous Peoples from dangers, for example, US deportations spreading Covid throughout Caribbean.
 - c. Empower Indigenous Peoples' governments to protect our ecological economic institutions through transparency and access to justice (Art. 19, 20, 23) to end trafficking and misassignments of Indigenous Peoples' titles to territories and life sources. Enable representative institutions of Indigenous Peoples (Art. 18) to negotiate with UN bodies on transboundary agreements to protect our ecological economic institutions.
 - d. The UN-supported response of States to Covid that overthrows Indigenous Peoples' governments and destroys economic institutions to benefit Business claiming territory

(violating Art. 25, 3) and governance rights of Indigenous Peoples continues to weaken Yamasi People's traditionally developed economic institutions with other Indigenous Peoples of Caribbean and North America, threatening Yamasi People and ecosystems with extermination from direct violence and disease.

- i. We ask EMRIP to advise CERD to give coordinated attention to systemic racism (Art. 2) against Yamasi People and other original Indigenous Peoples of the Americas involved with African Indigenous Peoples and their descendants. End US aggression against Indigenous Peoples of North America and Caribbean by enabling access to justice against colonial powers using UN System to hurt Indigenous Peoples who are governing outside UN System because of systemic racism. During the Covid pandemic the European Supremacist US transferred its State wealth to Business with privatization contracts overriding international instruments (violating Art. 32), thus expanding the US slave-based economy holding Indigenous Peoples as properties rather than recognizing collective human rights as governors and owners. US Covid-era development has increasingly: corrupted OAS making the option of obtaining non-binding recommendations from CIDH to US less feasible, expanded ocean dead zones and acidification making the 1.5C goal less obtainable; while directly forcing (violating Art. 17) Indigenous Peoples, including Yamasi People, to labor to develop ecosystems benefiting US colonization and extraction that degrades biosphere integrity as we have no collective human rights to self-determination or ownership in the UN-promoted European Supremacist US political and economic system that dominates North America and the Caribbean.
- ii. We ask EMRIP to explore UNOOSA's DRIP obligations and the UN Fourth Committee's obligations to prevent colonization of Indigenous Peoples that violates planetary boundaries for the purpose of colonizing space. The US Savannah River Site (SRS) nuclear bomb facility (violating Art. 29) that is served by unnecessary (violating Art. 30) nuclear power reactors delivering nuclear material to SRS supports the US Space Force (fundingⁱ increased during Covid pandemic) developing nuclear options for Space colonization, Space weapons, and Space energy. This SRS complex poisons with toxins and radioactivity Caribbean waters and Yamasi Peoples' territories and life sources. The pollution generated by this SRS complex accelerates ocean acidification and climate change (violating Art. 10) while degrading biosphere integrity, violating planetary boundaries for the benefit of elite space colonizers escaping climate impacts that would be mitigated by Declaration implementation.

Yamasi People, a People indigenous to the southeast Caribbean coast of North America, are descended from the First People our Creator placed here with title to protect and respect our territory.
